PRESIDENT WILSON TO BE IN EUROPE ABOUT A MONTH

Great Fleet of German Warships Comes Out to Surrender

SOLF MAKES FURTHER APPEAL FOR MODIFICATION OF TERMS

U. S. JUDGE FINES 6 CONVICTED OF DISLOYALTY HERE

Wehmeyer and Elmer Were Fined $1000 Each; Klein Who Pleaded Guilty, $400; Others Smaller Sums.

COURT SAYS ALL SPOKE IN HASTE

"Mr. Elmer Should Have More Sense Than to Write Boys Were Shackled," Munger Declares.

Judge Thomas J. Munger of Lincoln, Neb., sitting in the United States District Court here, today assessed only fines as the punishment for six defendants, five of whom had been convicted by jury and one of whom had pleaded guilty on charges of violating the espionage act.

The largest fine assessed was $1000, in the cases of William Frederick Wehmeyer of Quincy, Ill., and William P. Elmer of Salem, Mo., both of whom were convicted by jury. The three others similarly convicted, and their fines, are Claude D. Bunyard of Salem, Mo., $200; August Wiest, former Deputy License Collector of St. Louis, $200, and Wilford P. Brackett of St. Clair, Mo., $150.

John C. Klein, formerly a signal man in the Terminal yards, who pleaded guilty on an espionage indictment containing 16 counts, was fined $400.

Comment by Judge.

In passing sentence Judge Munger said:

"I don't care to review the testimony in any of these cases. The verdict of the jury is the indication by which the Court will be guided. As a stranger to your community, I feel that you are to be congratulated, considering the large German population, that there are no glaring or flagrant instances of disloyalty to the United States in any of the cases and by a singular coincidence there have been no propagandists of the street corner or of the box variety who endeavor to instill the poison of treason to our institutions in the minds of the people."

"The cases here are mostly outbreaks of men who were excited on foolishness. Many of them who made casual remarks were men who in ordinary conversation were expressing loyalty to the United States. All seemed good citizens outside of the charge that they spoke hastily because of being pressed for donations to various causes. In two or three of the cases more deliberation was shown."

Specifies Individual Case.

"Mr. Elmer, by reason of his education and position, should have had more sense than to write and publish that the men who were going overseas were manacled and shackled and should be sufficient to wear the look of free men on their faces."

"Mr. Wehmeyer was carried away by his love for the German people and German institutions and had let this love overbalance his loyalty to America."

"But the war seems over and you are to be congratulated that this era of tenseness in which men were becoming enemies to each other is about to end. A new era in which more freedom of speech and thought is coming. However, the punishment in these cases should be sufficient to deter others, and set an example."

"Mr. Klein also was influenced by his German associations."

"The punishment should be reasonable enough, to show the law has power, but, if they escape, it is not because of a lack of power. I have studied the cases and have decided to impose a fine in each case without cost."

After imposing the fines he said:

"This is an approximation it is impossible for any judge to measure accurately the extent of their guilt."

He said if he had made a mistake it was inevitable in the enforcement of the law. He granted a stay of five days in the cases of Wehmeyer and Klein, and one day in all other cases. In Elmer's case a stay of one day.

EX-KING CHARLES AND FAMILY SAID TO BE IN DIRE STRAITS

Reported to Be Unable to Get Nutrients Food or Even to Have Their Washing Done.

VIENNA, via Geneva, Monday, Nov. 18.—The situation in Vienna, where the first American correspondent, that of the Associated Press, arrived last week, appears to be that there is more talk than disorder, with urgent need for bread, especially for the poor of Austria. The correspondent was accompanied to Vienna by one French and one British army officer.

Former Emperor Charles, who has retired for the present to his castle at Eckartsau, it is asserted by the Socialist Arbeiter Zeitung, is living on the shortest rations, and possibly may be starving with his wife and family.

The former royal family has been unable to obtain meat, milk and bread in the neighboring village, or even to have its washing done. They have been obliged to sleep away almost all their 50 servants.

REPORT PRESIDENT WILL BE AT ALLIED MARCH OF TRIUMPH

Sovereigns and Chief Magistrates to Review Crack Troops, Says Paris Matin.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—When allied troops march under the Arch of Triumph at the close of the war, allied sovereigns and chief magistrates will be present, says the Matin.

It is understood that the Kings of England, Italy, Belgium and Serbia, Prince Alexander of Greece, President Wilson of the United States, a Japanese royal prince, representing the Mikado, and official representatives of China, Portugal, Rumania and the South American republics will be present.

It is said that each ally will be represented by a crack regiment which has fought in the most notable battles of the war.

LUXEMBURG CHAMBER REJECTS PROPOSAL FOR A REPUBLIC

Adopts Motion, However, Demanding Referendum on Future Form of Government.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 19.—A Luxembourg dispatch says that the Chamber yesterday adopted a motion demanding a referendum to decide the future form of government.

The Chamber desires that the Grand Duchy abstain from all governmental action pending the referendum.

A motion, supported by the Liberals and Socialists, demanding the abdication of the Grand Duchess and the establishment of a republic, was rejected.

REPUBLICAN PAN-GERMANISTIC PLOT SUSPECTED IN HOLLAND

Believed There That New Regime in Berlin Is Planning to Absorb Netherlands.

Copyright, 1918, by the Press Publishing Co. (New York World).

LONDON, Nov. 19.—"There is quite clearly a German plot afoot for the establishment of a great German republic to include Holland, against the wish of over 75 per cent of the Dutch population," says a Hague dispatch to the Daily News. "How far certain Dutch Socialist agitators are accessories to this plot is uncertain, but they undoubtedly are playing the game of republican pan-Germanism."

PROBATE JUDGE REJECTS WILL OF D. D. WALKER SR.

Accepts Contention That Its Author Was of Unsound Mind When He Disposed of His $750,000 Estate.

EFFECT IS TO DIVIDE WEALTH INTO 5 PARTS

Beneficiaries Will Be Three Sons, a Granddaughter and a Grandson—All Bequests Are Nullified.

The will of David D. Walker Sr., founder of the Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co., today was rejected by Probate Judge Holtcamp, who said he based his action on the testimony of five witnesses that Walker was of unsound mind.

The effect of Judge Holtcamp's decision will be to divide the estate, estimated at $750,000, into five equal parts to be distributed among three sons, David D. Jr., G. Herbert and William H. Walker, whom their father has cut off with nothing in his will; Miss Martha Washington Pittman, a granddaughter, who was the principal beneficiary under the will, and J. Theodore Walker Jr., another grandchild.

It nullifies Walker's bequests to charitable institutions, friends, former employees and domestics in the firm's relative. Specific bequests of $10,000 to the Red Cross for Belgian relief and $10,000 to Archbishop Glennon "for a purpose with which he is fully acquainted" are thus canceled.

Expressed Aversion for Sons.

The will, which contained many expressions of aversion for his sons, further provided that the residue of the estate be divided equally between the American Red Cross for expenditure through the St. Louis chapter and Archbishop Glennon for the relief of poor white women and children in St. Louis.

Immediately after Judge Holtcamp announced his decision, Walker's three sons appeared and took out letters of administration. They were accompanied by Miss Pittman, who, under the will, was to have received $216,000 in real estate on July 16, 1917, and Sept. 8, 1917.

Sanity Suit Was Pending.

After testimony of G. Herbert Walker that his father had given away $300,000 in three or four years, the elder Walker was adjudged to be of unsound mind by a jury in the Probate court on Feb. 19 last, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. was appointed as his guardian. This action later was set aside through effort by Walker's attorneys, and a second sanity suit was pending when Walker died.

Archbishop Glennon, when informed of Judge Holtcamp's action, said that he was not familiar with the terms of the will, except as he had seen them stated in newspapers, and was not prepared to say what action, if any, he would take.

282 NEW INFLUENZA CASES

An Increase of 84 Over the Previous 24 Hours.

There were 282 new cases of influenza reported during the 24 hours ending at 10 a. m. today, as compared to 216 reported at the same hour yesterday. In the same period, 22 deaths from influenza and 10 from pneumonia were reported.

A total of 15,367 cases have been reported since Oct. 7 and a total of 865 deaths from influenza and 371 from pneumonia.

IRON CROSSES A CENT APIECE

Amsterdam Telegram Tells of Market Price for German War Decorations.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The iron crosses which the former German Emperor so lavishly bestowed during the war now are being sold in Germany for five pfennigs, or about one American cent piece, a telegram from Amsterdam says.

DISTRICT DRAFT BOARD PASSED 27,653 APPEALS AND CLAIMS

Sustained 10,867 of 15,970 Registrants Who Sought Relief From Local Board Filings.

A survey of the work done by the District Appeals Draft Board since its creation shows that it made decisions on 27,653 questionnaires. These were cases of men who appealed from the decisions of local boards on dependency and physical claims and of those who made industrial and agricultural claims, which only the district board can decide.

The three classes of registrants are: Class of June, 1917, composed of men who registered then; class of June, 1918, composed of men who registered June 5 and Aug. 24 of this year and class of September, who registered Sept. 12 last.

Of the classes of June, 1917, and June, 1918, 15,771 appealed on dependency and 189 on physical grounds. The board placed 4992 of the dependency claimants and 111 of the physical claimants in Class one. Of the first two classes, 6113 filed industrial and agricultural claims. The board denied 2967 of these.

Local boards were ordered to finish the classification of men 19 to 36, both inclusive, and to mail questionnaires to, and classify, all 18-year-old registrants. Men 37 years old, or over, who have received questionnaires, are to return them blank. All physical examinations are to be discontinued.

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN THURSDAY AND MEET AGAIN DECEMBER 2

Democratic and Republican Leaders Agree on Recess After Senate Passes Dry Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Congress will adjourn Thursday under an agreement between Democratic and Republican leaders. The last urgent legislation was disposed of yesterday through passage by the Senate of the emergency agricultural adjustment bill, which provides for "war-time" prohibition.

Adjournment Thursday will prevent the present session merging into the third and final session of the Sixty-fifth Congress, which will convene Dec. 2.

During the adjournment the Senate Finance Committee will continue revision of the revenue bill in line with the suggestions made last week by Secretary McAdoo.

AMERICANS AND CANADIANS REPULSE BOLSHEVICK ATTACKS

Severe Losses Reported Sustained by Reds in Assault at Tulgas, on Divina River.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Bolshevik forces have resumed their attacks against the American and British positions at Tulgas, on the Divina River. They have been repulsed with severe losses.

On the morning of Nov. 11, after a heavy bombardment from their gunboats and barges, the Bolshevik infantry stormed the allied barbed wire entanglements and succeeded temporarily in reaching the gun emplacements of the Canadian artillery.

J. F. SMITH, MORMON CHURCH HEAD, DIES

Denounced Polygamous Marriages at Last Semi-Annual Conference.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 19.—Joseph F. Smith, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons), died at his home here early today after a long illness.

Death was due indirectly to a paralytic stroke suffered last April. Notwithstanding his illness, President Smith attended the recent semi-annual conference of the church and spoke strongly against polygamous marriages, which it was rumored had been surreptitiously performed during the last few years.

PRIVILEGES IN RHINE REGION ARE ASKED FOR

Wants Economic Intercourse With Territory on Left Bank as Before the Armistice.

DESIRES TO EXPLOIT COAL AND IRON MINES

Free Navigation by Way of Rotterdam and Coast for Provisioning Germany Requested.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Monday, Nov. 18.—A long wireless dispatch signed by Dr. Solf, the German Foreign Secretary, addressed to the American, British, French and Italian Governments, has been picked up here.

The dispatch asks for elucidation, "in a mollifying sense," of the conditions of the armistice concerning the left bank of the Rhine, without which "we shall inevitably advance toward more or less Bolshevik conditions which might become dangerous to neighboring states."

Germany wants the terms of the armistice modified so that she can have economic intercourse with the territory on the left bank of the Rhine as before the armistice. Dr. Solf, the Foreign Secretary, says in a wireless dispatch received here. The message is addressed to the Governments of the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy.

In view of the close economic relations between the country west of the Rhine and the remainder of Germany, the preservation of which is necessary "to the continued peaceful development of Germany," Dr. Solf asks for the modification of some dozen points concerning this region.

For instance, he asks permission for German owners to exploit, as heretofore, the coal, potash and iron ore mines and the general free use of the Rhine for transport within the boundaries of the German Empire.

The Foreign Secretary also asks permission for free navigation by way of Rotterdam and the coast for the provisioning of Germany; the continuation of industrial pursuits on the left bank of the Rhine for the use of the remainder of Germany, and free railway traffic in occupied territory.

The old frontier of the empire, including Luxembourg, Dr. Solf suggests, is to be regarded as the customs boundary and custom duties are to be levied by Germany.

Dr. Solf declares that, without these modifications, Germany will advance toward more or less Bolshevik conditions which might become dangerous to neighboring states.

He repeats the previous protest against the surrender of means of transport, and protests against "continued blockade." The Foreign Secretary concludes by saying that attempts by German delegates to discuss these matters at Spa had been unsuccessful because the representatives there of the allies' countries lacked the necessary powers.

REPORT UKRAINE WILL ENTER NEW RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT

Berlin Sends Out Message Saying Hetman Has Issued Statement to That Effect.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Gen. Skoropadski, the hetman of the Ukraine, according to a report from Kiev, received in Berlin and transmitted by German wireless, has issued a statement to the Ukrainians calling attention to the imminent establishment of Russia as a Federal State.

He declares that the Ukraine will enter this new government.

F. P. WALSH RESIGNS AS JOINT CHAIRMAN OF WAR LABOR BOARD

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Frank P. Walsh, joint chairman with William H. Taft of the National War Labor Board, today sent his resignation to President Wilson, with the explanation that professional engagements required his return to his law practice at the earliest possible moment, now that hostilities have ceased.

FIRST SECTION LEFT KIEL FOR NORTH SEA ON SUNDAY

Program Calls for Delivery Tomorrow to Forces in Which British, French and American Navies Will Be Represented.

By the Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, Monday, Nov. 19.—The first section of the German fleet to be delivered to the allies left Kiel on Sunday for the North Sea.

His section of the fleet comprised the battleships Bayern, Grosser Kurfurst, Kronprinz Wilhelm, Markgraf, Koenig Albert and Kaiserin, and the battle cruisers Seydlitz and Moltke.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Monday, Nov. 18.—The program for the surrender of the German fleet, as the striking of the colors which have replaced the imperial ensign, the ancient token of yielding, will be among the more interesting features of the manifestation.

"There is another significance which attaches to this act of submission, for it represents the non-fulfillment of one of the principal purposes for which the German navy was created—to protect Germany's sea trade and colonies."

"The war has come to an end and Germany has lost her colonies and her trade. She now loses the best part of her effective naval force."

On the other hand, the British fleet is still adequate and is not only as strong as it was before the war, but stronger than ever."

PETAIN ELEVATED TO RANK OF MARSHAL BY FRENCH CABINET

Poincare Presides at Meeting Which Honors Commander in Chief of French Armies.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Gen. Petain, the Commander in Chief of the French Armies, today was named a Marshal of France at a meeting of the French Cabinet, presided over by President Poincare.

Gen. Petain today is entering Metz at the head of the French Tenth Army.

The raising of Gen. Petain to the rank of Marshal increased the number of Marshals of France to three, the others being Marshal Joffre and Marshal Foch. Gen. Petain, formerly Chief of the General Staff, was, on May 15, 1917, appointed Commander in Chief of the French armies operating on the French front, which command he has since held, while Marshal Foch, as Generalissimo, commanded the French and other allied armies throughout the field of operations.

Gen. Petain before his appointment as Chief of Staff won his chief distinction for the heroic defense of Verdun under his command. He was a retired Colonel at the outbreak of the war, but rose rapidly through the ability he displayed. As commander on the French front he added notably to his earlier laurels.

Gen. Petain is 62 years old.

TRANSFER 2 POLICEMEN WHO RAIDED BETTY RAY'S HOME

Patrolmen Alonzo Holt and William Pritchard of the Dayton Street District, who raided the house of Betty Ray at Leonard and Lucas avenues on Nov. 11 and arrested the Ray woman and three other negroes, following a man's complaint that he had been robbed in the house of Liberty Bonds and cash, were transferred today by Acting Chief of Police O'Brien for the good of the service.

Holt was sent to the Wyoming District and Pritchard to the Deer District.

When Acting Chief O'Brien was asked if the transfers were made at the request of any member of the Police Board or of any Federal official, he said that nobody had requested it that he knew of. He made the transfers himself, he said, for the good of the service, and that was all he would say about it.

The Ray woman is under a charge of keeping a disorderly house and the other women are charged with being inmates. Their cases are set for Dec. 11 in police court.

NEW REPUBLIC OF HUNGARY IS PROCLAIMED FORMALLY

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 19.—Formal proclamation of the Hungarian republic was made Sunday, according to a Budapest dispatch received here.

Archduke Joseph took the oath of allegiance to the new government after Count Michael Karolyi, president of the Hungarian National Council had made a speech. He declared that he personally had great sympathy with the people's government.

WILL LEAVE U. S. EARLY IN DECEMBER

Announced That Executive Will Sail Immediately After the Convening of Congress in Washington to Take Part in Discussion of Peace Treaty Features.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Wilson will go to France early in December to take part in the discussion and settlement of the main features of the treaty of peace. His decision to accept the invitation of the allied Premiers was made known last night in a formal statement from the White House.

The President plans to sail immediately after the opening of the regular session of Congress on Dec. 2. How long he will remain abroad is not known.

He has indicated that it is not his present intention to stay throughout the sessions of the conference, but, since the delegates probably cannot be assembled until late in December, he will be absent from the United States for several weeks at least.

GOES ON INVITATION OF ALLIED PREMIERS

First President to Visit Europe During His Term of Office, May Visit Other Countries; Discussion of Probable Delegates.

The President expects to sail for France immediately after the opening of the regular session of Congress for the purpose of taking part in the discussion and settlement of the main features of the treaty of peace. It is not likely that this will be possible for him to remain throughout the sessions of the formal peace conference, but his presence at the outset is necessary in order to obviate the manifest disadvantages of discussion by cable in determining the greater outlines of the final treaty.

Accompanying the President will be delegates who will sit as the representatives of the United States throughout the conferences. The names of these delegates will soon be announced.

Mr. Wilson will be the first President to visit Europe and also the first to attend a peace conference for the settlement of issues growing out of a war in which the United States took part. He regards his presence as necessary in order to obviate the manifest disadvantage of discussion by cable in determining the greater outlines of the final treaty.

B. C. STEVENS, FREED, IS AGAIN SENTENCED

Former Clayton Realty Man Out on $10,000 Bond, Pending Action on Bill of Exceptions.

Beverly C. Stevens, 56 years old, former Clayton real estate operator, who today finished serving a three-year term in the penitentiary for embezzlement, was arrested by St. Louis policeman as he left the prison this morning and was brought to St. Louis, arranged before Circuit Judge Davis and sentenced to serve another three years under another conviction, also for embezzlement.

After sentence had been imposed, Stevens' lawyers asked for 90 days for his appearance in other cases to file a bill of exceptions and he was released after bond for $10,000 had been furnished by his sister, Mrs. Jennie C. Higgins of 6192 Kingsbury avenue. Of this bond, $3000 was an appeal bond, and $7000 was surety for his appearance in other cases pending against him in St. Louis.

Stevens, who then lived at 4235 Maryland avenue, St. Louis, was convicted before Judge Cave, who was Judge Davis' predecessor, in May, 1915. He was also convicted in Clayton and in St. Charles, and the sentence fixed by the jury in each case was three years. He appealed to the Supreme Court, and went to Arkansas to try to re-establish himself financially. When the Supreme Court affirmed the Clayton conviction, he went to the penitentiary in December, 1916. His release today was under the two-thirds rule.

67 INDICTMENTS RETURNED.

Stevens was indicted by the Clayton grand jury Oct. 12, 1914, 67 indictments being returned. Of these, 37 were taken to St. Louis on a change of venue, and a number of the remaining cases were taken to St. Charles. Nineteen of the indictments charged false pretenses and grand larceny, 16 false pretenses, 14 embezzlement, and the others are on combinations of these charges, and on charges of forgery and false releases of deeds of trust.

His conviction before Judge Cave was for embezzlement of a note and deed of trust for $1500. The note and deed were owned by C. C. Sanders of 623 Clara avenue, a florist, and Stevens was charged with having sold them and converted the proceeds to his own use. The St. Charles conviction, in July, 1915, was on a forgery charge.

NIGHT MESSAGES TO BE LOWER

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Reduction in telegraph rates on night messages was ordered today by Postmaster-General Burleson, effective Jan. 1 next.

The minimum cost on night message telegrams will be 20 cents for 10 words and 1 cent for each additional word for the short distances, and 50 cents, with 2 cents for each additional word for the long distance. Such messages are subject to delivery by postoffice carriers.

ELECTIONS NOT POSSIBLE BEFORE 1919, EBERT SAYS

German Premier Tells Newspaper His Government Is Firmly Determined to Summon Constituent Assembly

LIFE RETURNING TO NORMAL AT BERLIN

Institution of Red Guard, Discussed in Soldiers' Council and Opposed by Ebert, Now Seems Unlikely.

By the Associated Press.
AMSTERDAM, Monday, Nov. 18.—Friedrich Ebert, the German Premier, told the Vossische Zeitung on Friday that the Government was firmly determined to summon the constituent assembly, but that it was impossible to effectively hold the elections before January, by which time the troops will have returned home. He considered untenable the objection that delay would hinder the gathering of the peace delegates. A Berlin telegram under date of Nov. 18, which has been received here, says that during the 24 hours before its dispatch not a shot had been fired in Berlin and that the physical crisis appeared to be over. Order, it is said, was maintained with an iron hand, and robberies were punished by immediate execution. At that time, the life of the city was returning to normal.

No Red Guard Wanted.
Delegates from all the Soldiers' Councils met in the Reichstag chambers in Berlin on Friday to discuss the institution of the Red Guard, according to a dispatch received here. The proceedings were enlivened by divergences of opinion, some advocating the Red Guard as a civil protection and others opposing the plan as implying a lack of confidence in the soldiers.

Ebert frankly declared in an address that there was no necessity for the Red Guard. He said:

"I have no anxiety for the new government because it is sustained by the competence of the masses. We have received news that the troops were orderly when the armistice was declared. In the barracks, however, it was different. Many cases of haste to return home are reported."

"In Baden and Wurttemberg, the troops streaming back from the front constituted a great danger to security. Negotiations are in progress to obtain food from America, for food is what we need. Peace and order mean transport facilities. All Soldiers' Councils place themselves at the service of the Government to hasten demobilization."

"Democracy can march only if its head is untouched. Then, too, we have prospect of getting peace conditions which at least may be somewhat favorable."

"If the enemy sees anarchy amongst us he will dictate conditions which will entirely destroy German economic life. Therefore, go forward to common work for the future."

Amid prolonged applause resolutions were unanimously adopted that the representatives of the garrison of greater Berlin should employ all means to maintain order, achieve a social republic and increase soldiers' pay.

A provisional council has been formed at Berlin under the presidency of Dr. Reiser, head of the Hansa League, for organization of citizens' committees to safeguard the rights of citizens and to support the Government. The council demands an immediate constituent assembly.

Welmeyer was charged with having shouted "Hurrah for the Kaiser" in a St. Louis saloon on Labor day, 1917, and with having harangued a crowd at Broadway and Olive street the same day while the labor parade was passing.

The principal count in his indictment was that he referred to President Wilson as "wooden-headed Woody" and said the United States was fighting for Wall street and not for the best interests of the country.

In his instructions to the jury Judge Munger said a slighting reference to the President was not ground for conviction, as it was merely criticism of an official, but

AMERICAN TROOPS WELL INTO BELGIUM ON THEIR MARCH TOWARDS RHINE

German Officers, Ignorant of Internal Situation in Germany, Eager for News From Our Men—Warm Welcomes From Populace Continue.

By the Associated Press.
AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Nov. 19, 8 a.m.—First Division headquarters at Landres today was awaiting orders at any moment to move forward. The troops on ahead were spending the day along the line reached late on Monday.

The Americans in Landres are enjoying all the comforts of a modernly equipped and newly finished German bathhouse. It is a building of two stories with concrete walls, care being taken to make the structure a permanent one. The building is steam-heated throughout.

German Officers Seek News From Our Men of Events in Germany.

By the Associated Press.
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHEAST OF VERDUN, Monday, Nov. 18.—German officers who met the American forces at Boulingny today were eager to hear about the latest developments in Germany. They say that news has been kept from them and that for days prior to the signing of the armistice they had heard no details of what was going on.

Lieut. William Schmidt, one of the German officers, told the Americans their entrance into the war unquestionably turned the tide against Germany. In his opinion there would have been a different story to tell if America had kept out. He said the Germans generally did not hold a grudge against America or Americans, although some blamed the Americans for the defeat.

With the arrival of the third division at Conflans at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, church and school bells were rung and the civilians turned out in force to welcome the Americans. The Mayor and village officials arranged a reception for the American officers, the Mayor telling of the gratitude of France for America's aid. The school children sang and waved French flags.

Conflans is damaged, but little with the exception of the railroad, where bombers put out of commission one of Germany's main lines of communication from Metz to the front opposite the Americans.

that the allegation that the war was being fought for Wall street might obstruct recruiting and was punishable.

William P. Elmer formerly was a member of the Republican State Committee and was a candidate for the State Legislature from Dent County at the November election, but was defeated. He was charged with having published disloyal articles in the Salem Republican.

It was alleged that in these he reflected on the motives of the Government in entering the war and wrote that soldiers who were being sent to the front were "manacled and shackled and marked for the slaughter."

August Wiest was alleged to have said in a drug store at Grand and Laclede avenues: "Our boys have no business over there, 3000 miles from home. I am the President Wilson. I am a Republican."

Bunyard Charged Favoritism.
Claude D. Bunyard, a real estate dealer in Salem, was alleged to have said the Government was sending all the poor boys to France and permitting the rich ones to remain at home. He also was charged with criticizing the Red Cross, but his acquittal on this count was ordered by the Court.

Welmeyer was charged with having shouted "Hurrah for the Kaiser" in a St. Louis saloon on Labor day, 1917, and with having harangued a crowd at Broadway and Olive street the same day while the labor parade was passing.

The principal count in his indictment was that he referred to President Wilson as "wooden-headed Woody" and said the United States was fighting for Wall street and not for the best interests of the country.

In his instructions to the jury Judge Munger said a slighting reference to the President was not ground for conviction, as it was merely criticism of an official, but that she is the wife of another man, who left her five years ago. Each said their parents knew of their relations. Carroll was in the first draft.

"This is one of two or three similar cases which I have encountered in St. Louis," Judge Munger commented. "I don't understand this practice of young people living together without the formality of marriage, which seems to prevail widely in St. Louis. Both of these young people's parents knew of this, and permitted it."

Cecil E. Dukes, a negro, of 3419 Laclede avenue, was sentenced to four months in jail for having sworn falsely in his questionnaire that his wife was dependent on him for support. He was found guilty by a jury.

Jail for Falsification.
James P. Hennecke, who pleaded guilty to making a false affidavit in his questionnaire, was sentenced to four months in jail. He admitted he had induced a woman to falsely represent herself as his wife.

Anna Bruenig, who pleaded guilty to selling liquor to a soldier, was sentenced to 20 days in jail.

Judge Munger came to St. Louis Oct. 25 to relieve Judge Dyer of part of the burden imposed by a congestion of the docket due to the large number of cases based on war-time statutes. At that time 70 cases were on the docket. Many of these were espionage cases and others involved draft evasion. From Oct. 22 to 23 the Judge heard arguments on demurrers in about 15 cases. Only one case was thrown out entirely on the sustaining of demurrers. In several other cases Judge Munger sustained some or all of the demurrers, but later he reinstated these cases when his rulings were shown to be in conflict with a decision of the United States Court of Appeals.

Of the 69 cases which remained on the docket 28 were brought before the court. Nine cases were tried by juries and there were seven convictions. In the cases of two defendants, Henry C. Koenig, a brick manufacturer, charged with disloyalty, and Harry S. Turner, editor of "Much Ado," charged with sending obscene matter through the mails, the Judge ordered acquittals.

On the docket are still 40 cases which were not touched by Judge Munger and which now revert to Judge Dyer. Among these are the disloyalty charges against Turner and Henry B. Kroninger, formerly an automobile manufacturer.

Reached Briey During Morning.
American troops entered Briey, the heart of Lorraine iron fields, at 11 o'clock this morning. There were arches across the main street and the town was bedecked with flags. Fifteen hundred civilians greeted the troops.

A thousand civilians showed few indications of the war, the buildings being intact, but there were German signs everywhere, pointing in the direction of ammunition dumps and the various headquarters.

A thousand civilians greeted the vanguard of the Second American Division, which reached Montmedy shortly before 8 o'clock Sunday morning. The civilians knew the Americans were coming but were surprised at the early hour of their arrival. The Americans, likewise, were surprised to find so many civilians awaiting them.

Montmedy is little scarred as the result of the war except for the railroad yard, where the bombs of American aviators some time ago displaced tons of earth and tore up the railroad. When the Americans arrived in Montmedy the civilians were still at work putting up flags along the principal streets. Soon after the excitement of the welcome was over the Americans were surprised to see shopkeepers open their stores.

It was alleged that at a meeting of the board he spoke in opposition to the sale of Liberty Bonds and Thrift Stamps and said that although he had a son in the United States service he was for Germany.

John C. Klein, the only defendant who pleaded guilty, was said to have justified the sinking of the Lusitania and to have said the Government put passengers on the ship to cover up the fact that it carried ammunition. He was also alleged to have said he would go to the penitentiary for 25 years rather than fight against Germany.

Judge Criticizes Morals.
Judge Munger imposed a sentence of three months in jail on Frank Carroll of 1506 Montgomery street, and of one day in jail on Beulah Johnson. The couple pleaded guilty to having falsely sworn, in Carroll's questionnaire, that they were legally married, and that she was dependent on him for support. She admitted presumption of the fact that it carried ammunition. He was also alleged to have said he would go to the penitentiary for 25 years rather than fight against Germany.

FRENCH TROOPS NOW NEAR RHINE IN ALSACE

Reach Town of St. Louis, Opposite Basle, Switzerland—Advance Steadily Elsewhere.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 19.—French advance guards yesterday entered the town of St. Louis, opposite Basle, Switzerland.

(The town of Basle, Switzerland, is on the Rhine in the portion of Switzerland bordering Alsace, hence in reaching St. Louis the French now apparently are almost if not quite on the west banks of the Rhine.)

Progress by French troops advancing to occupy the territory west of the Rhine is traced in the official statement issued at the War Office last night. The statement follows:

"Our troops continue their march this morning and are being received with growing enthusiasm by the populations of the occupied regions. The enemy has abandoned enormous quantities of material, locomotives, railroad cars, automobiles and magazines of all sorts. Thousands of French, Russian, English and Italian prisoners are entering our lines from German prisons."

"In Belgium we have passed the railroad running between Beaurain and Florenville. Further east we have reached the lines of Hoffagne, Bertix and Stramont. Our troops are also in the Jemogne region south of Neuf Chateau. In Lorraine we have occupied St. Marie-Aux-Chenes on the south bank of the Nied River and are on the road toward St. Avois. We are in the region of the heights of the Saar. Our troops have made solemn entry into Saarburg, Dieuze and Mohrman."

"In Alsace we have crossed Col-Saverne and have installed our advance guards at the gates of Wassenheim and Molsheim. Further south we are in the proximity of the Rhine from north of Neuf-Breisach as far as the Swiss frontier."

"The people of the occupied regions do not cease to give our troops touching evidences of their love for France."

Haig's Report on Progress of Second and Fourth British Armies.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Monday, Nov. 18.—Field Marshal Haig's report on the advance of the British troops says:

"The Second and Fourth Armies continued their march today. Our advanced troops reached the general line of Florennes, Charleroi, Seneffe and Hal."

Americans in Verdun Section Find Enemy Had Plenty of Ammunition.

By the Associated Press.
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHEAST OF VERDUN, Monday, Nov. 18.—Twenty-two large caliber guns and great stores of lumber, barbed wire and various kinds of material used by engineers were formally turned over to the Americans by the Germans today at Boulingny. Much of the material is new.

When the Americans entered Boulingny they were met by Lieut. William Schmidt of the artillery and Carl Schilling of the pioneers. Both carried arms and white flags. Each German officer had an orderly, all four speaking English learned in German schools.

After receiving receipts, the officers started for Luxemburg to join their own forces. Schmidt and his orderly traveling in a two-wheel cart and Schilling and his orderly proceeding by bicycles.

The Germans were not short of ammunition on this sector. The road from Etain to Conflans is lined on both sides at places with ammunition of all kinds. At St. Jean, Olley and other villages along this road are many new buildings, some of which were not completed when the news of the armistice arrived. The workers quit at once, leaving their tools behind them. Along the road there were artillery repair shops, a camouflage factory and shops for the repair and manufacture of airplanes.

Villages along the Etain and Conflans road are apparently deserted of French people. None appeared in village after village as American troops passed through early Monday.

French Troops to Enter Metz Today: Strassburg Entry Sunday and Monday.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Monday, Nov. 18.—It is officially announced that French troops, led by Gen. Petain, will enter Metz tomorrow. Subsequently Gen. Castelnau and Gen. Mangin will follow with the armies.

The entry into Strassburg, which will be headed by Marshal Foch, will take place next Sunday and Monday.

PRESIDENT GOING TO PEACE CONFERENCE, TO BE ABSENT A MONTH

be the first between the chief executives of the two greatest republics, and it will be the first time that a President of this country has visited a foreign capital. Before returning home, Mr. Wilson probably will go to London and Brussels and possibly Rome. He may make a pilgrimage to some of the battlefields of France.

President Wilson's purpose in going to France in advance of the meeting of the peace congress is understood to be to discuss with the allied Premiers at Versailles the program to be laid down for the guidance of the peace delegates when they meet. It has been suggested that Mr. Wilson probably will be invited to preside at the opening session of the peace congress.

In reaching his decision to attend the peace conference, President Wilson is understood to have been largely influenced by representations from Premiers Lloyd George of Great Britain and Clemenceau of France, and other statesmen of the Entente countries. The principles and terms of settlement enunciated by the President have been accepted by both the associated nations and the Central Powers as the basis upon which peace is to be re-established, and it is understood that is for the working out of the application of these principles that his presence is so earnestly desired by the allied statesmen.

ST. LOUISAN GETS D. S. C. FOR HEROISM IN ACTION

Edwin Wiese Cited for Capturing Machine Guns—E. St. Louis Man Also Honored.

Edwin Wiese, 31 years old, of C Company, 335th Infantry, son of Mrs. Louise Wiese of 4514 Harris avenue, St. Louis, and Charles William Michaels, 19 of E Company, 131st Infantry, son of Mrs. Charles Miller of 1230 Baker avenue, East St. Louis, have received the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action, according to official announcements made today by the War Department.

The citations, containing the official record of the acts which won recognition, are:

Private Edwin Wiese, Company C, 335th Infantry.—For extraordinary heroism in action at Ensey, Sept. 12. Private Wiese displayed conspicuous gallantry by creeping forward alone under machine-gun fire and capturing two enemy machine guns, which were holding up the advance of his organization. Mrs. Louise Wiese, mother, 4514 Harris avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Private Charles Michaels, Company E, 131st Infantry.—For extraordinary heroism in action at Chapelle Ridge, Aug. 10. This soldier showed gallantry in attacking an enemy machine gun with his platoon sergeant, killing the crew and capturing the gun, which he used later on effectively against the enemy. Mrs. Clara Miller, mother, 1230 Baker avenue, East St. Louis, Ill.

Both men have written to their mothers since the dates named in the citations, but neither of them, the mothers said today, told of having performed any act out of the ordinary, or of having won any special mention.

Not Mentioned in Letter.

In a letter dated Oct. 8, Wiese wrote to his mother that perhaps some of his friends might ask whether he had been over the top. "Just tell them," he said, "that I've been over the top and then some." This is the nearest he came to mentioning his capture of the machine gun.

"Tell Brother Walter," he continued, "that Grover Alexander, the Phillies' pitcher, is in an artillery regiment with our division."

The rest of the letter, the mother said, was about his desire to get home, eat food and go fishing.

Wiese is an art glass worker, and was drafted last February and trained at Camp Funston. Mrs. Wiese is a widow, and has five other sons and two daughters.

East St. Louisan Gassed.

Michaels enlisted June 28, 1917, in the 124th (East St. Louis) Field Artillery, but was transferred to E Company, 131st Infantry.

He wrote his mother that he was gassed Aug. 14 and was in a hospital. A telegram from the War Department last week contained the same information. In a letter dated Oct. 6 he said he expected to leave the hospital the next day. Before enlisting Michaels was employed at the Elliot Frog and Switch Works.

In a letter to his sister, Mrs. Blanche Sherburne of 4138 Gibson avenue, wife of Sgt. W. A. Sherburne of the Supply Company, Thirtieth Field Artillery, stationed at Camp Funston, under date of Aug. 24, he wrote:

"You see, Blanche, we were up in the lines and just got through going over the top. They send gas over day and night and a fellow can't stand it all the time. When I would get to sleep, they would yell 'gas' and being sleepy, we would inhale a little of the gas. Then I felt sick and could hardly stand it, but I waited until we were relieved, then I went to the hospital."

Six Men of the Eighty-Ninth Get Distinguished Service Cross.

Two officers, three noncommissioned officers and one bugler of the Eighty-ninth Division are named in a list issued today by the War Department, as having received the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action.

The Eighty-ninth Division is composed largely of drafted men from Missouri, Kansas and Colorado, who were trained at Camp Funston, Kan. More St. Louis drafted men are in the 354th Infantry of this division than are in any other command, and the 355th also contains a number of St. Louisans. The Eighty-ninth, it was announced yesterday, is part of the Third American Army, which has been designated as the American army of occupation in Germany.

Those from the Eighty-ninth Division cited for heroism, with the official record in each case, are:

Sgt. Glenn M. Reed (deceased), Company B, 355th Infantry.—For extraordinary heroism in action near Beney, Sept. 13. Sgt. Reed voluntarily left shelter and passed through heavy barrage to assist a wounded comrade who was unable to reach shelter by himself. As a result of this heroic action, Sgt. Reed was himself killed. Milton Reed, father, Auxvasse, Callaway County, Mo.

Capt. Fred F. Moore, 355th Infantry.—For extraordinary heroism in action north of Fliery, Sept. 12. Wounded in the left shoulder early in the morning, while in command of his company, Capt. Moore continued to lead and handle it during the entire day in an efficient and gallant manner under fire. He refused to take time to have his wound attended to until late that night and after his command had entrenched under fire and were safe. Home address: Mrs. Carrie M. Moore, Stewart, Minn.

PARTY OF ENGLISH EDUCATORS IN CITY

Visitors Inspecting American Schools to Visit Washington and St. Louis Universities.

A visiting party of English educators, inspecting American universities for the special purpose of establishing fellowships and exchange professorships between English and American universities, was at Hotel Statler today, and will remain until tomorrow night. Washington and St. Louis Universities will be visited.

Dr. Arthur Everett Shipley, vice chairman of the party, Sir Henry Miers, vice chairman of Manchester University; the Rev. Edward Mewburn Walker, librarian of Queen's College, Oxford; Sir Henry Jones of Glasgow University, and Dr. John Joly of Trinity College, Dublin, are the other educators.

ST. LOUIS SENDS 500 BOXES TO FRIENDLESS AMERICAN SOLDIERS

Each Box Costs $1.50 and Red Cross Is Accepting Subscriptions at Headquarters and Postoffice.

Five hundred Christmas boxes, for soldiers overseas who have no relatives, were prepared yesterday by 10 Red Cross workers in charge of Mrs. J. F. Drummond, at Room 1004, Frisco Building.

Each carton contained a pound box of caramels, nut bars and hard candy; one-fourth pound of fruit cake, 10 packages of cigarettes, two packages of chewing gum, a pack of playing cards and two khaki handkerchiefs. The contents of the boxes were purchased through voluntary contributions and each box represented an expenditure of $1.50. No campaign for funds has been or will be made, but persons desiring to contribute may do so at the postoffice and at the committee's headquarters in the Frisco Building.

Total of British Killed in War on All Fronts 658,655

War Office Secretary Announced in Commons 37,836 Officers and 620,829 Men Lost Lives.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The total of British losses in action on all fronts during the war was 658,655, James an McPherson, parliamentary secretary of the War Office, announced in the House of Commons today. Of these, 37,836 were officers and 620,829 were men.

MAYOR TO SEE FIREMEN'S PLAY

Mayor Kiel and city officials, with their families, will occupy boxes tomorrow night at "The Still Alarm" at the Odeon, being given this week for the benefit of the Firemen's Pension Fund.

The production will close with a children's matinee Saturday. The last night performances will be Friday. The heavy sale of tickets by firemen virtually assured the wiping out of the deficit in the Firemen's Pension Fund, and if the seat sale keeps up the fire fighters will have a sufficient surplus to meet all expenses caused by abnormal war conditions.

CORPORAL IN 138TH WAS KILLED SEPT. 26

E. E. Walker Lost Life First Day of Argonne Battle—Came From Coast to Enlist.

Corp. Edward E. Walker, 25, of B Company, 138th (St. Louis) Infantry, was killed in action Sept. 26, the first day of the Argonne battle, according to an official notification received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Walker of 2607 Union boulevard.

He was a salesman on the Pacific Coast for the St. Louis Surface and Paint Co. and had his headquarters in San Francisco, but he came to St. Louis in June, 1917, to enlist in the Fifth Missouri, which some of his friends had joined. He was an only son, and a sister survives him.

Corp. Harold Worthy, 27, of K Company, 138th, son of Arrell Worthy, living near Jerseyville, died Oct. 1 from wounds received in action Sept. 26, the father has been notified. He was a cousin of Sgt. Frederick Worthy of the same company, who was killed in action Sept. 26, and who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Worthy, also living near Jerseyville.

Enlisted Together.

The cousins enlisted together in April, 1917, in the First Missouri Regiment, which obtained a number of Illinois recruits at the time when a part of the regiment was detailed to guard the Alton bridge. The two declared, when they left for France, that they meant to "stay together," and their relatives see evidence that they kept this resolve, in fact, that they received their fatal wounds on the same day.

The Worthy cousins are the only Jersey County men thus far reported killed in action, but 10 or more men from the county have died of disease in France or in American camps.

Richard Fischer Jr., 24, of the Thirtieth Machine Gun Battalion, son of Richard Fischer of 5502 Vermont avenue and brother of Misses Frances and Pauline Fischer, was killed in action Oct. 15, the father was notified in an official telegram received today. He was employed in Chicago as a bookkeeper in the spring of 1917 and he enlisted there in the regular army and was first in the Thirty-fifth Infantry, from which he was transferred to the machine gun branch.

Auto Mechanic Killed.

George N. Reiss, 26, of D Company, Fifty-ninth Infantry, a native St. Louisan and brother of Frank Reiss of 4234A Easton avenue, was killed in action Oct. 7, the brother was notified last night. Reiss was an automobile mechanic and was drafted while working in Detroit.

J. C. Barrett, 25, of C Battery, Tenth Field Artillery, was killed in action Sept. 12, according to a notification received by his uncle, Caventry Archibald of Belleville. Barrett was a resident of Belleville and enlisted last spring in St. Louis.

Harry G. Ellis, 27, of E Company, 352d Infantry, son of the Rev. H. Ellis, pastor of the Evangelical St. Marcus Church, 2111 McNair avenue, died in France from pneumonia, Oct. 16, the father was notified today. He was formerly a clerk, and was drafted last May. He was a brother-in-law of A. H. Kiskaddon of Kirkwood, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County. He wrote his father in September that his pay had been increased, and the father judged that he had been promoted to Mess Sergeant, but was not sure of this.

Charles W. Martens of D Company, 138th, whose death was unofficially reported in letters of comrades two weeks ago, is named in an official dispatch to his father, Edward Martens of 3216 Dakota street, as having been killed in action Sept. 27. He was an employee of the Post-Dispatch pressroom, and was the first employee of the Post-Dispatch, and thus far the only one reported killed in the service.

Listed as Prisoner.

August Fred Wieden, 24, of K Company, First Infantry, is named in today's official casualty list as having been taken prisoner. His wife, Mrs. Florence Wieden, 6148 Crescent avenue, now a patient at the Jewish Hospital, has received no notification, according to a relative. He was formerly with the First Regiment, and served with that body at the Mexican border. He is a bricklayer, and has two brothers in the service. The release of all prisoners is one of the terms of the armistice, now being carried out.

Members of the 354th, 353d and 355th Infantry, Camp Funston regiments of the 89th Division, which fought in the St. Mihiel battle and is now a part of the Army of Occupation, are among the residents of St. Louis and vicinity figuring in the latest official and unofficial casualty reports.

Anthony J. Machacek, 26, of C Company, 354th, was severely wounded, according to a telegram to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Machacek of 1315 Russell avenue, and was admitted to the base hospital at Toul. He was formerly a radiator repairer, and was drafted last April. A brother, Thomas, is in the service.

William Joseph King, 25, of D Company, 354th, was wounded severely Aug. 7, according to a notification to his mother, Mrs. Anna M. King of 1412 North Newstead avenue. He has written her that he was gassed. He was formerly a truck driver, and was drafted last April.

John R. Barry, 26, observer of C Company, 354th, was gassed severely Aug. 8, according to a telegram to his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Bushart of 1325A South Thirteenth street. He has written her that he was recovered.

Agreement is general that men in uniform shall have places of honor and the St. Louis Automobile Club has indicated its desire to furnish transportation to those whose wounds preclude marching.

It is understood that effort will be made to have every form of activity in the city participate in the parade more generally than in any similar previous event. Exercises to follow in Forest Park and a continuation of the celebration into the night with patriotic bills at all moving picture houses have been proposed.

Decision as to whether the city will take a full or a half holiday, what arrangements for postponement will be made if the weather happens to be unsuitable, and similar details will be left to the committee, the Mayor said. R. King Kauffman, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., is chairman.

FORMAL VICTORY CELEBRATION IN ST. LOUIS NOVEMBER 30

Mayor Kiel has designated Saturday, Nov. 30, as the date of the formal celebration by St. Louis of the signing of the armistice in the world war.

He has named a committee of 95 men and women to arrange details, it being understood that the chief feature will be a parade. The Mayor will meet the committee tomorrow at 4 p. m., at which the general outline of the celebration will be discussed.

Decision as to whether the city will take a full or a half holiday, what arrangements for postponement will be made if the weather happens to be unsuitable, and similar details will be left to the committee, the Mayor said. R. King Kauffman, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., is chairman.

BRITISH TRANSPORT CONVEYED 22,000,000 TONS, LOST BUT 4391

More Than 120,000,000 Tons of Naval and Military Stores Were Carried.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—During the war the British Admiralty transport service conveyed by sea 22,000,000 tons of goods, with the loss of only 4391. More than 120,000,000 tons of naval and military stores and more than 2,000,000 animals were transported. The British fleet and auxiliary craft grew during the war from a total of 2,500,000 tons to a total of 6,500,000 tons, while the personnel increased from 146,000 to 406,000.

One of the largest convoys was organized for the movement of Dominion troops and comprised 32 ships. The vessels were conveyed without loss from the Far East to European waters.

EGGS 60 CENTS AT WHOLESALE

Highest Price in History of St. Louis Exchange, but Lowest in Country.

The wholesale price of eggs was 60 cents a dozen today, an advance of 2 1/2 cents over the market price of yesterday and 11 cents higher than the top price last year.

Although today's quotation was the highest in the history of the local Butter and Egg Exchange, eggs, retailed here today for 70 to 75 cents a dozen in any other market in the United States.

What Determines Meat and Live-Stock Prices?

Some stock men still think that Swift & Company—and other big packers—can pay as little for live-stock as they wish.

Some consumers are still led to believe that the packers can charge as much for dressed meat as they wish.

This is not true. These prices are fixed by a law of human nature as old as human nature itself—the law of supply and demand.

When more people want meat than there is meat to be had, the scramble along the line to get it for them sends prices up. When there is more meat than there are people who want it, the scramble all along the line to get rid of it within a few days, while it is still fresh, sends prices down.

When prices of meat go up, Swift & Company not only can pay the producer more, but has to pay him more, or some other packer will.

Similarly, when prices recede all down the line Swift & Company cannot continue to pay the producer the same prices as before, and still remain in the packing business.

All the packer can do is to keep the expense of turning stock into meat at a minimum, so that the consumer can get as much as possible for his money, and the producer as much as possible for his live-stock.

Thanks to its splendid plants, modern methods, branch houses, car routes, fleet of refrigerator cars, experience and organization, Swift & Company is able to pay for live cattle 90 per cent of what it receives for beef and by-products, and to cover expense of production and distribution, as well as its profit (a small fraction of a cent per pound), out of the other 10 per cent.

Coca-Cola Is "All There"

COCA-COLA, though reduced 50 per cent in quantity, still maintains 100 per cent quality. There's only one glass to be had now where there were two before necessary conservation cut our sugar supply in half, but the glass that you do get is "all there" in materials, exactly as it was before the war—nothing to dilute or cheapen or in any way alter your favorite beverage.

When you order Coca-Cola, ask for it by its full name and demand the genuine. Your palate will tell you if a substitute is served. If you suspect you've been served with a substitute, put the question squarely up to the dealer.

SALOON MURDER SOLVED BY FINDING LOST AUTO BADGE

Four Men, Arrested Through Chauffeur's License, Admit Killing at 1935 North Broadway.

PICKED UP IN STREET
IN FRONT OF PLACE

One of Prisoners Describes
Shooting Last Wednesday
When Told Companion
Had "Talked."

A chauffeur's license badge, found by city detectives in the street in front of Allie Chandler's saloon at 1935 North Broadway following the murder of Chandler in his saloon at 9:15 o'clock last Wednesday night, was the clue which led to the arrest of four men and a confession that the motive was robbery.

At police headquarters, where the confessions were made public today, it was stated that search of the street in front of the saloon for a clue was made by detectives after witnesses had said that Chandler's slayers fled in an automobile. The chauffeur's license tag, found in the street, was numbered 14,930.

Badge Traced to Owner.
Through the Secretary of State it was learned that the badge had been issued to William Buchanan of 1216 Clinton street. When questioned, Buchanan informed the police that he had turned it over to William Dains, 24 years old, of 812 Madison street.

Dains was arrested. At first he denied having ever seen the badge, but later admitted having received it from Buchanan and said that he had given it to Harry Bensky, 35 years old, of 3063 Sheridan avenue, a chauffeur employed by the Liberty Automobile Co. of 1818 Pine street.

Bensky was arrested. He denied having any knowledge of the Chandler murder, but when detectives told him that Dains had been arrested and had "talked," which was not a fact, Bensky said that he would tell all he knew of the affair.

Motive Was Robbery.
He then stated that he had driven Dains, Theodore Freebreyer, 23 years old, of 3916 North Twenty-second street, and Frank Moran, 20 years old, of 908 Mound street, to Chandler's saloon the night of the murder.

"I remained in the car when the others went into the saloon," Bensky told Detective Chief Hannegan. "Several shots were fired and the three ran from the saloon. They jumped into the automobile and told me to beat it."

Moran was the next prisoner to "talk." When he was told what Bensky had said, he sighed and shrugged his shoulders. "Freebreyer did the shooting," said Moran. "I told him that he was a fool. We did not intend to kill anybody. We were just going to stick up the place."

"Did that Jew snitch?" Freebreyer exclaimed, when told of Bensky's confession. "Why, he framed up the whole job. He steered us to the place. Don't let him get out of this. He is more responsible for what happened than any of the rest of us."

In the presence of the other prisoners Moran told what occurred the night of the murder. He and Freebreyer and Dains entered Chandler's saloon, he said, to hold up the place. They had planned that Freebreyer and Dains were to cover the occupants while he (Moran) was rifling the till.

"I had no sooner shouted 'hands up,' when Freebreyer began shooting," said Moran. "Chandler fell and one of the customers who was trying to get away was shot in the back."

The customer referred to by Moran was John J. Kuntz of 1931 Market street, who is in the city hospital with a serious bullet wound in his back. Chandler was shot through the neck.

Tells of Day Before Killing.
"As we ran for the automobile," continued Moran, "I asked Freebreyer why he had done the shooting. I told him he had boobyed the job. He said that he was afraid Chandler was going to get him."

Chandler had a loaded revolver in his pocket when killed. Freebreyer today told detectives that Chandler reached for his pocket when ordered to throw up his hands and that he (Freebreyer) began firing because he believed that Chandler intended to draw a weapon.

Moran said that in the afternoon of the day of the murder he was with Freebreyer on the latter's dump cart. They rode to a city dump at Madison street and the river, he said, and Freebreyer was complaining that he was not making enough money. That evening they met Dains in a poolroom at Broadway and Madison street. Moran said, and Freebreyer said that he had quit his job.

Had to Buy Bullets.
"We then planned a holdup," Moran said. "Dains and Freebreyer got revolvers. They did not have enough bullets between them, and Freebreyer purchased some. We telephoned Bensky to meet us at Broadway and Madison, and he drove us to Chandler's place. Bensky denied having ever suggested a hold up to Freebreyer. "He did so," said Freebreyer. "He told me about a place on King's highway where he said we could get a lot of dough. He wanted me to do the stick-up and split 50-50 with him."

Four years ago Freebreyer was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for having stabbed to death

Joseph Tilber in a quarrel near the former's home. After he had served eight months he was paroled by Gov. Major at the behest of a girl who later became his wife.

Detective Sergeant James Moran was in charge of the investigation.

WETS THINK DRY BILL HAS LOST FOUNDATION

Believe "War Time" Measure,
Now Up to President, May Be Attacked in Courts.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Unless the President should veto the measure, prohibition to last through the period of demobilization will become effective July 1 next.

"War-time" prohibition has been tied up with the fortunes of legislation on two other subjects, entirely unrelated to the prohibition issue. As a result, though the sentiment of both houses of Congress is strongly "dry," it was not until yesterday, a week after the virtual ending of the war, that the prohibition leaders of the Senate succeeded in getting final affirmative action on their measure.

The prohibition enactment is a rider on a bill "to provide further for the national security and defense by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products."

A "War-Time" Measure. Senators who oppose prohibition, realizing they were in the minority, had virtually dropped the fight by the time the issue came to a head yesterday. One factor in their decision not to oppose the measure further is the belief held by some of the "wet" leaders that the bill as it stands is subject to attack in the courts. It was specifically designed as a "war-time" measure. The war is practically over. Therefore, according to this line of reasoning, the emergency on which the bill was based no longer exists.

The bill provides, in amendment No. 13, "that, after June 30, 1919, until the conclusion of the present war and thereafter until the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the President of the United States, for the purpose of conserving the man-power of the nation, and to increase efficiency in the production of arms, munitions, ships, food and clothing for the army and navy, it shall be unlawful to sell for beverage purposes any distilled spirits, and during said time no distilled spirits held in bond shall be removed therefrom for beverage purposes, except for export."

Beer Comes Under Ban. The same provision is made with respect to beer and wine.

After May 1, no grains or other food products shall be used in the manufacture of beer, wine or other intoxicating liquors. The importation of wine must cease on the same date. A penalty of imprisonment up to one year or a fine not to exceed $1000, or both, is fixed for violation.

The same amendment carries a further provision under which the President, if he saw fit, could immediately proclaim a large portion of the country dry. This provision empowers the President, at any time after the passage of the act, to establish dry zones "of such size as he may deem advisable" about coal mines, munition factories, shipbuilding plants and other plants producing war material.

Maplewood to Welcome Soldiers. At a meeting in Maplewood Saturday night, 30 men organized the Maplewood Welcome Home Association, and made arrangements to entertain and banquet each of the 200 Maplewood boys who now are in service, either abroad or in cantonments in this country, upon their return home. Arthur D. Willecken was elected president of the association, and R. F. Stevens secretary.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and other organs, which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes, lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to bladder disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble. ADV.

SCOTT FIELD TO CLOSE; 252 CADETS GRADUATED THERE

Students May Continue Course for a Commission in Officers' Corps.

Following the announcement at Washington yesterday that Scott Field, six miles east of Belleville, Ill., had been ordered closed, it was said at the field today that 252 flying cadets had been graduated as pilots since instruction began on Sept. 1, 1917.

The cost of construction and equipment of the field was more than $1,000,000.

The closing order of Major-General Kenly, chief of the Division of Military Aeronautics, also included Chanute Field, near Rantoul, Ill.; Selfridge Field, at Mount Clemens, Mich., and the Air Service School for Mechanics at St. Paul, Minn. It was said at Scott Field today that no order yet had been received there and that cadets were still flying.

Major-General Kenly's order also offered cadets the privilege of continuing their course for a commission as Second Lieutenants in the Officers' Reserve Corps, or immediate discharge without commission. Similar choice is offered candidates for commission in balloon schools.

360,000,000 CAR MILES SAVED BY ZONE DISTRIBUTION OF COAL

Fuel Administration Says New System With Care Will Make Bituminous Supply Adequate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Fuel Administration announced today that its estimate that approximately 360,000,000 car miles would be saved this year through the operation of the zone system for the distribution of bituminous coal is being realized.

"This system," said the announcement, "made possible through the co-operation of the Railroad Administration with the Fuel Administration has had a large share in bringing the nation's supply of bituminous coal to its present proportions, which, with patriotic economy, will be sufficient for the winter's requirements."

FOCH PRAISES BRITISH ATTACKS

Hammer Blows Decisive Factors in Victory, He Says at Luncheon.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 19, via Montreal.—Marshal Foch, in a speech at a luncheon given in his honor yesterday by Field Marshal Haig, at British Army headquarters, said that the hammer blows dealt by the British were decisive factors in the final crushing of the enemy. The Marshal afterwards received the British Army commanders, congratulating them warmly upon the tenacity of their troops.

Garland's Warm, Enveloping Velour C-O-A-T-S

With Big Fur Collars
or With Self Collars

A Wednesday Feature at

$28

Winter's here, and here are your Winter Coats—Velour Coats—and when one thinks of a Winter Coat, the warmth-without-weight kind, the next thought is "Velour," unless you want to pay $50, $60, $75, or more, then you may "think" Bolivia. But for a good coat, at a modest price, one that will be a real friend in cold weather, the answer is "VELOUR."

AND THESE COATS, in addition to dependable quality and superior tailoring, have SO much style and SO much individuality that every woman who had intended paying around $30.00 or $35.00, or even more, should see them before deciding.

Come here tomorrow, slip into one of those stunning Burgundy or Seal Brown Coats, with fur collar and high belt and gathered back, or this taupe with big convertible collar and self material, or that stunning seal brown model that hangs loose from shoulders to hem, with big ripples in back, or a dozen other styles and as many colors. Your Coat's here, it's for you to pick it out. It's here in this twenty-eight-dollar line.

Any Other Materials?

Yes, here's a broadcloth that is regarded as a little more dressy than Velour. And Duvet de Laine—that is a first cousin to Velour, but a little smoother in finish—and these are shown in the best colors for service and style.

One of the Fur-collared Navy Velour Coats, $28.00

High-Class Costume Suits—

The kind of Suits that only come one of a kind. The kind that are individual and exclusive in every line and detail. The kind that have their inception in creative genius of only the master designers of Paris.

Three-piece models, exceptionally smart and distinctive—the sleeveless dress of finest suede cloth and sport coat of all fur, such as mole, squirrel, mink, beaver, nutria, etc. Others lavishly fur trimmed. Just 40 Suits in this special collection.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 30c and 25c a box. All druggists.

RUB RHEUMATISM AWAY! IT'S GREAT

Rub Pain, Soreness, Stiffness,
Sciatica away with St. Jacob's Liniment.

Count fifty. Pain gone!

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop, stop, stop! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Liniment," directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Liniment" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappears and cannot burn or discolor the skin.

Linger up. Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Liniment" from any drug store and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pains, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer. Relief and a cure awaits you. "St. Jacob's Liniment" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.—ADV.

Tells of a Home-Mixed Medicine
For Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, etc.

The Blackburn Products Co.
Dear Sirs: As I was mixing some more of the Menthio-Laxene in syrup this morning I could not help but wonder if you really knew what a wonderful cold remedy it is, even if you do put it up.

Last Fall we were really worried about my husband, as he had tried so many remedies, and the doctor did not help him at all, when one day he happened to read an ad of your Menthio-Laxene and he said: "I will give it a trial, then give up, I guess, if it doesn't help me." But can you believe it? He began to feel easier right away, and long before the first bottle was gone he was all over his terrible cough, and by taking a little when feeling hoarse, just a little, we both have ward off every bit of colds and coughs since, until Monday of this week he got his feet so wet and by night he coughed again quite badly, but this morning he was o. k. again. This is 3:00 p. m., so you see how quickly it worked.

We have gotten over so many others to use it by giving them a sample of ours. This is just a line to tell you how grateful we both are to you and your remedy.

MRS. GEORGE E. GATIS.
334 N. Hickory street,
Owosso, Mich.

Menthio-Laxene is sold by all good druggists everywhere. A 2½ oz. bottle of the concentrated essence makes a full pint of the most effective cold and cough medicine. Directions and guarantee of satisfaction accompany each bottle.—ADV.

KIDNEYS RETAIN POISONS

Whenever the kidneys are not working properly, you may be absolutely sure you are retaining poisons in your system. This fact is manifested by terrible headaches and backache; by dizziness, dry, harsh skin, fever and chills; by failure to void the poisons, although the desire is strong; by rheumatic pains, etc. If you will take a great physician's prescription, to wit:

Balmwort Tablets

you will relieve your system of the poisons, allay irritation, and get on the quick.

ROAD TO HEALTH!
Sold by all druggists.—ADVERTISEMENT.

AN ACTIVE WORKER FOR THE WAR CLUB

Mrs. Leo DeSmet-Curton

WOMAN WAR WORKER

GUEST AT LUNCHEON

Easterner Entertained by the Committee of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club.

A N important affair of today which was the incentive for a large gathering of prominent women was the luncheon at the Hotel Statler at 12:30 o'clock by the Women's Committee of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club. Mrs. Frank P. Hays, who has been the efficient president of the club the past year, presided at the luncheon, which was preceded by the annual election of officers.

The guest of honor was Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston of Rhode Island, who is considered by many as one of the foremost women orators of the country. She took for her subject, "Women in War Work."

Mrs. Livingston is a member of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. and is State president of the Suffrage Association, and is prominently identified with all important women movements of the day.

Among the large number of those who made reservations for the luncheon were Misses E. F. Bush, Charles Cummings Collins, Howard Bailey, Olive B. Swan, Edmund P. Brown, Leo de Smet-Curton, William Hardaway, A. C. Meyer, Harry Stegall, B. P. Arthur, Sheppard Smith, Thomas L. Anderson, W. A. McCandless, John S. Payne, Lionel Bel Moses, Herman Pettensell, Robert Lee Hedeker, Lon O. Hocker, R. A. Burns, Willard Bartlett and Arthur Partridge.

Another event under the auspices of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club is the bridge party to be given at the Woman's Club on the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 27. This is for the purpose of raising funds to carry on the excellent work that this organization has done in providing comfort and entertainment for our defenders, when they were passing through the city or were stationed here. As this will be one of the first large social-patriotic affairs to be given since the influenza ban was lifted and since cessation of hostilities, society is looking forward to it with eagerness.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Calhoun of 329 Union avenue entertained with a luncheon at the new Allee's Shop, on Saturday, the opening day, at which the guests included the chairmen of the different departments and their husbands and those who have been donors to the shop with their wives and husbands.

Lieut. and Mrs. William F. McLaughlin are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a son. Mrs. McLaughlin was formerly Miss Helen Bolland and has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bolland of 1336 Pershing avenue for the past two months. Lieut. McLaughlin arrived yesterday from Columbus, N. M., where he is stationed with the United States Cavalry.

The American University Society will present John Kendrick Bangs to its members on Friday, Nov. 29, at the Wednesday Club Auditorium in a war talk entitled "Light and Shade in the Land of Valor."

Mrs. George P. B. Jackson, and her niece, Miss Katherine Vest, who recently returned from New York, have decided to spend the winter at the Hamilton Hotel instead of taking an apartment as they first intended to do.

Miss Harriett Edwards and Miss Katherine Curlee of Kirkwood departed Saturday for Camp Greene, S. C., where they will be attached to the Nurses' Reserve at the hospital there.

The Cornelia Greene Chapter, D. A. R., will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Jefferson Memorial, when the election of officers will take place. On Saturday the chapter will hold a rummage sale at 1611 Franklin avenue to raise funds to carry on its war relief work.

Mrs. Alexander P. Robinson of Webster Groves has returned from Scott Field, where she spent a week as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George Blustein, formerly Miss Eleanor Robinson, a bride of last August.

PRESS COMMENT ON WILSON'S PEACE TRIP

New York World Calls It Grave Mistake—Views of Kansas City and Chicago Papers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The World, in an editorial entitled "A Mistaken Decision," this morning says:

"The announced determination of the President to go abroad for the peace conference will be generally regretted throughout the country. That he should go as an equal participant in the conference with the delegates from other countries has clearly been given up, and for obvious reasons. The evident purpose is to place himself in a position where his views can be more readily be impressed upon the conference, whether in the shaping of its peace treaties or in forwarding his own cherished ideal of a league of nations.

"But where in Europe can there be found a rostrum for such expression equal to that of the hall of the House at Washington in the immediate presence of the representatives of 100,000,000 people? It certainly cannot be found in the secluded locality of Versailles, where the conference is likely to sit, or at Brussels or elsewhere, should its place of meeting be changed. Nor can it be found in London or some other European center, without denying to the argument its whole force of close proximity to the conference.

"President Wilson's great and wonderful leadership of the world in respect to war aims and peace terms and a league of nations to make future wars impossible was gained and held in all of its outward expressions from that rostrum at Washington. He cannot find one in all Europe from which his voice will carry further or sound with greater power around the world.

"We cannot but feel that the President is making a grave mistake from any point of view in deciding finally to remove himself so far from the seat of the Government he is charged with administering, in a still critical time, for purposes which can be better served where he is."

Kansas City Star Questions His Wisdom in Going.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 19.—The Star today says editorially: "Of course, it is quite within the rights of the President to attend the peace conference if he desires. Under the Constitution he has the initiative in making treaties subject to the limitation that they must have the approval of two-thirds of the Senate.

"But irrespective of his right to attend the conference, there will be many Americans who will question his wisdom in doing so. After all the United States got in only at the end of the great war. While American troops were the determining factor and while they did magnificent work, the burden which they and the country bore was relatively small compared to that borne by the allied nations.

"While America has a vital interest in a just settlement at the peace table, it recognizes the fact that the problems involved are far more momentous to France, England and Italy than to the United States. A mistake in the settlement might result in ruin for one of them. It would only slightly affect America. They are the neighbors of the Central Powers. America has the protection of 3000 miles of ocean.

"Under these circumstances the President's decision to attend the conference will be received with mixed feelings. Undoubtedly there will be widespread regret. On account of his unique position he will go as head of the state as well as promoter. He will be the ranking figure at the conference, and so America will necessarily be at the head of the table. The impression can hardly be avoided that America will thus be seeking an importance in the peace councils beyond that to which she is entitled on the score of performance."

N. E. COR. BROADWAY AND LOCUST

ST. LOUIS, MO., Nov. 15, 1918.

Mr. Thos. H. West, Chairman,
United War Work Campaign,
St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir:—

We, the undersigned, heartily approve of the work which is being done by the seven Organizations represented in the United War Work Drive, and believe that their work should be supported liberally by the people of St. Louis.

The apportionment of the funds raised in this Campaign, as agreed upon by the President of the United States, and National heads of the various Organizations, is fair and satisfactory to each Organization represented.

We, therefore, heartily recommend and urge all persons interested in helping to provide for the welfare of our boys who have won such a splendid victory, to support the United War Work Campaign whole-heartedly and without reservation.

Yours very truly,

This Is Everybody's Work

It makes no difference whether a boy is a Protestant, Catholic, or Jew, if he is a soldier he has done his part, and we owe him a deep debt of gratitude. Now that he has won his fight we cannot say to him "You must shift for yourself." He needs our help more now than he did when he was facing the enemy's bullets. He is still facing an enemy, for idle time is the greatest enemy to a boy's mental and moral safety.

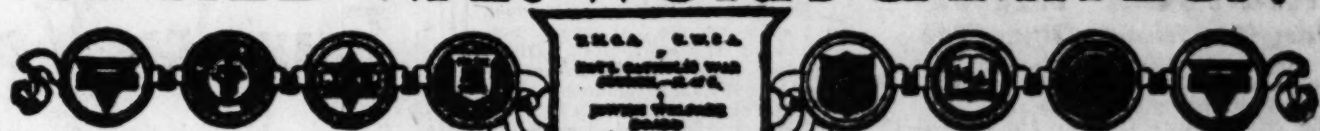

It will be a long, long time before our boys can possibly get home. We must take care of their physical welfare with all kinds of wholesome sports and recreations.

We must take care of their mental welfare with clean entertainment and instruction. It is a big program and it will require the whole-hearted support of the people of St. Louis.

GOVERNOR CALLS TAX COMMISSION OF NO VALUE NOW

Abolishment of State Board at Coming Session of Legislature Believed to Be Probable.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—Gov. Gardner, in outlining today to a Post-Dispatch correspondent the legislation which he expects to recommend in his message to the next Missouri Legislature, which convenes in January, indicated that he would attempt to wash his hands of the State Tax Commission. The commission was created two years ago at the Governor's insistence to equalize the assessment of property and the collection of taxes. The Tax Commission has been very unpopular in rural Missouri, where the larger number of votes, politicians and legislators are found. The efforts of the commission to assess property at its actual value, as the law directs, has been nullified by the State Board of Equalization, which has refused to fix the assessment at the figures experts of the commission said was the actual value of the property. Nearly all rural members of the Legislature will come to Jefferson City pledged to their constituents to pass a bill abolishing the commission, and it now appears that they will meet with little opposition from the Governor. The Governor's position, as stated by him, is to "put the Tax Commission straight up to the Legislature."

His position is that if the Legislature desires to have the tax laws enforced, it must pass a bill reducing the tax rate 50 per cent or must fix the rate of assessment at 50 per cent or some other per cent of actual value so that there will be no material increase in the amount of taxes paid.

The Governor goes so far as to say that the Tax Commission is absolutely useless if the present tax laws are not to be enforced, and that there is not the slightest occasion to continue its existence at an expense to the State, unless the laws are to be enforced.

Under these conditions there seems to be little doubt that the Tax Commission will be abolished.

Speaking today, the Governor said: "There will be no necessity at this Legislature of additional revenue legislation. The finances of the State are in splendid condition, and by Dec. 31 the State will pay off the remaining $600,000 of the $2,250,000 which we were compelled to borrow from St. Louis banks more than a year ago to meet the deficiencies of a previous administration.

"The new laws passed by the last Legislature have yielded more than $2,000,000, having been in operation practically only one year, and next year we will obtain at least $2,500,000 from them and the money will be available for current uses, as there will be no deficiencies this year to be paid next.

"The penitentiary is self-sustaining, while previously it has been a financial deficit of around $300,000. There are six gangs of prisoners working on the roads of the State.

"More than 1200 acres of farming lands are being operated with prison labor, and the prisoners are being taught a trade, and will receive for themselves 5 per cent of their earnings.

"The road building of the State, under the laws enacted two years ago, has been retarded by the war, the War Industries Board having prevented the issuance of $20,000,000 of road bonds which had been voted by the counties. That board also has prevented the use of cement, oil and other road-building material.

"Eighty-six road projects in 48 counties have been approved by the Highway Commission, and many of these now are under construction.

"It may be that it was a mistake for us to expect that four men at $1000 a year each, which is the salary paid the members of the Highway Commission, would be able to give the time the great work deserves. It may be that it would be advisable to have one Highway Commissioner at a salary of $10,000 who would give his full time to the work.

"The public schools of the State are in excellent condition. Last year we were able to give them $350,000 more than ever before, but that is not enough, and want to give them $1,000,000 more next year than they ever have had. We also must increase the allowances for the State university and the State normal schools.

"Now as to legislation which I shall recommend.

"1. I shall ask the Legislature to appropriate $25,000 each for three monuments to be placed at the entrance of the new State capital, one to the 15,000 Missouri boys who have offered their lives for their country, one to President Wilson and one to Gen. Pershing.

"2. A law to permit Missourians who are in the army and navy to vote at all primary and general elections.

"3. An appropriation to present a medal of suitable character to express the gratitude of the people of Missouri to each man who has enlisted in the country's service.

"4. A proper recognition of the State Council of Defense, including an appropriation of $100,000 to pay the expenses of the council, that amount having been loaned by public-spirited citizens of the State.

"5. Authority or the issuance to the State Council of Defense and all county courts of defense of a certificate recognizing their work.

"Sixth, a law recognizing the home guard and making such appropriation as will be required to cover the expenses of the home guard until the Missouri National Guard regiments return from abroad and the National Guard of Missouri is reorganized, as it will have to be.

"Seventh, the submission of a constitutional amendment preventing any foreign-born person from voting until he has received his final citizenship papers.

"Eighth, a loyalty law which will enable the State to assist the Federal Government in punishing individual cases of disloyalty in the event of a war in the future.

"Ninth, a work-or-fight law which will require that every man from 18 to 55 shall work or fight whenever the country is at war.

"Tenth, the submission of a constitutional amendment for women's suffrage. I am a strong advocate of this.

"Eleventh, a bill calling an election to permit the people to call a constitutional convention to frame a new constitution for the State. The time has come when Missouri should have a new man-size suit of clothes. This constitution should include the budget system and should provide for separation of sources of revenue for State and county taxes.

"The sources of State revenue should be from franchises, incomes and inheritances, taxes derived from real and personal property should go entirely to the counties, cities and towns.

"In such a plan, every county could fix the tax rate which would yield the revenue that county needed and it would make no difference to any other county what it was.

"12. A workmen's compensation law. Missouri is one of the few States which have not been fair to its laboring people and this regard.

"13. Additional laws for the protection of children who have no parents or home.

"14. Revision of the civil and criminal code, which is recommended by the bar associations of the State, and by the leading lawyers.

"15. There should be no thought given to the abolition of the Public Service Commission. The readjustment of rates of public utilities will be more important after the war than before. If the commission should be abolished as has been suggested in some quarters the lid would be off, and there would be no protection for the public."

The Governor will begin the preparation of a message which will be read to the Legislature when it convenes, Jan. 8. At the present time he does not contemplate any recommendations in addition to those enumerated.

dent Wilson, in accordance with his announced principles, will support the efforts of Germans in Austria to effect a union with Germany. He pointed out that this is the same as supporting the rights of the Poles, Italians and Jugo-Slavs to unite with motherlands outside of Austria-Hungary.

The Foreign Minister also begs the President to bring about an early discussion of peace preliminaries and concludes by saying that his Government is constituted of representatives from all parties and has succeeded up to the present in preserving order. This task, however, has been difficult because of the lack of food, the blockade being said to threaten famine.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Two Suggestions.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Please print the following suggestions:

1. To help those European nations which are now ousting their tyrannical, or quasi-tyrannical lords (and a tyrant, however mild, is every ruler who does not derive his power from the consent of the people), let America translate into the German, Russian, Bulgarian, Turkish-Dutch and other languages her immortal Declaration of Independence, down to the end of the phrase: "It is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government and to provide new guards for their future security," and have it distributed by millions of copies to all nationalities now trying to set up new systems of government. No statesman, nor foreign intervention, however friendly and disinterested, could ever accomplish what the spirit of free America can prompt, in our day, those peoples to do.

2. As to the kind and shape of a monument to be erected in this great city in honor of the boys who have heroically contributed to the winning of the terrible European war, by fighting like lions, and, many of them, by sacrificing their lives, let it be not an altar, neither a shaft, nor a building; but a triumphal arch like those of Titus, Vespasian, Septimius Severus, Trajan, and Constantine, to be seen in Rome, or like the one standing before the great northern gate of the city of Milan.

AMERICAN.

The Proposed War Memorial

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

For the proposed war memorial building there might be erected as appropriate a Temple of Social Service, for the exposition of American ideals through the arts—Americanization in and through music, painting, sculpture, poetry, drama, literature, etc.—to be projected by the St. Louis Art League, furthering industrial art through the crafts, a suitable auditorium being included. The building to be embellished with sculptural designs commemorative of the objects and sacrifices of the war with peace, good will and brotherhood of man as the crowning figures.

CHARLES DENNIS PLATT.

Another Memorial Idea

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read with a great deal of interest your editorial on the proposed memorial to our boys who have made, as well as those who were willing to make, the supreme sacrifice. Undoubtedly this memorial, as you say, should be in the form of an edifice, and while standing as a monument to the memories of our boys should at the same time be of service to the public.

It seems to me that the very temple we need in St. Louis is a temple dedicated to the very things the boys fought for—Justice, Right, Liberty, and the need of a new courthouse. The present building, in so far as its adaptability to the purposes for which it is used is concerned, is discreditable to this community.

Let a new courthouse in St. Louis be the memorial.

WILLIAM F. FAHEY.

Livestock Show and Races

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

St. Louis wants a great livestock show like the American Royal and wants it badly. Every merchant in St. Louis knows that such a show cannot be financed, operated or maintained without racing. There are thousands who would welcome racing for the sport itself. There are thousands more who would whip it down to get a livestock show. Even the great army of dyed-in-the-wool reformers are thinking deeply. They are wondering, when the Government stops spending its millions a day on war material, when our 4,000,000 army is based back in industry, when the millions of women now in war work are turned adrift, with prohibition looming in the offing, where we are going to be "at" with a city that offers no natural lure to the tourist, isolated from the channels where red blood flows.

JOSEPH A. MURPHY.

Remember the Sailors

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have noticed in the letters from the people the suggestion of giving credit to the boys in the army, but not a word for the boys in the navy, but thanks to the Post-Dispatch for the lovely picture it had of the navy boy on its magazine cover of Sunday, Nov. 3. Now I have a son who enlisted as soon as war was declared and who has worked at his duty these 18 months without a single furlough. This boy is not working for personal credit but for his country, which stands for principle.

Mothers stop and think, not a one of your boys could land home safe to you if it were not for the boys in blue, and if the Post-Dispatch can give me the name of a boy in the navy who has no mother or home, I will only be too glad to send him a Christmas box. Three cheers for the boys in blue and three cheers for the Post-Dispatch.

MRS. KENWORTHY,

MR. WILSON AT THE PEACE TABLE

President Wilson's decision to go to Europe to confer with the leaders of the allied nations on the peace settlement must be judged wholly on the question of expediency and the effect his presence at the preliminary conference will have in reaching the right determination of the problems to be dealt with.

The peace settlement is incomparably the most important event within the scope of his action and influence. It is of paramount importance, not only to us, but to the whole world—to mankind. It involves the harvesting of the fruits of the greatest war in history. It involves the establishing in international dealing of the principles of justice and liberty for which the war was fought to a finish. It involves the success or failure of the proposed league of nations.

As the head of the nation whose entrance into the war was a decisive factor in winning it and as the leader of the forces of democracy who defined their aims and purposes in war and the peace to follow it, would Mr. Wilson's personal presence and counsel and influence be of value in gaining the ends we seek—the ends that will be the fruition of our hopes and desires and labors?

It is understood that the Premiers of Britain, France and Italy have combined in urging the President to attend. Their judgment is at least worthy of weighty consideration. The President will be heard wherever he speaks—in Washington, London or Versailles. His power and influence will be felt as the Chief Executive of the United States, wherever he is. But can he make his power and influence more potent and give better effect to his ideas of a just democratic peace by cable or in person.

This is the whole question.

The President's absence from this country will not be illegal or without precedent. His trip to Europe will be novel. It will be unusual. But the situation is novel and unusual. It is an epoch-making event and precedents are of little consideration in determining vital questions involving the foundations of world democracy and an enduring peace, based upon new international relationships. Nothing that he could do in dealing with Congress for a month or so would approximate in importance what he might accomplish in outlining the terms upon which the future peace and happiness of mankind may depend. He can deal with Congress by cable.

Suppose the President's absence from the conference should result in an unsatisfactory settlement—what then?

In the light of the vast good and evil that might flow from the conference, his decision is not to be lightly judged. Perhaps he and the leaders of the nations with which he must deal are the best judges of the conditions under which a satisfactory conclusion may be reached.

Maximilian confesses that had it been left to him he would have added the capesheet to German hypocrisy, by telling the world the war aims of Germany were the same as those of America.

SENATOR REED LOOKS BACKWARD

Speaking of wages, Senator Reed, in a speech in the Senate, remarked that they will naturally be reduced as the purchasing price of the dollar, which decreased during the war, increases under peace conditions. He said:

This of course will affect the price paid for labor in common with prices paid for other commodities. Has not Senator Reed got beyond that relic of past labor oppression, the theory that labor is a commodity to be bought in the open market, like pigs and hardware, at the lowest price? Has he not yet advanced beyond the inhuman idea that cheap labor is a blessing? The wages of labor may be affected by the purchasing price of a dollar and the prices of commodities, because these things affect the cost of living and the standard of living. All commercial compensation is more or less affected by these influences.

Labor is human material with all the material needs and spiritual possibilities of mankind. It is a vital factor in human society and its well being is necessary to the general welfare, to human progress, to the material, social and spiritual development of civilization. When labor is enslaved or suffers poverty and privation under the commodity theory, industrial peace and orderly progress are impossible. Society is divided into hostile camps, with exploitation in one and anarchy in the other.

Undoubtedly there will be a readjustment of wages and prices on the basis of peace conditions, but not on the theory of labor as a commodity. Labor, whatever may be the level of wages and prices, will receive its just due in wages and conditions of work in peace as in war. If it does not the war for democracy and enduring peace will have been fought in vain. The foundation of progressive civilization will be lacking.

If a senatorship were a commodity what would be the price of a Senator who, in this day of enlightenment, thinks and talks of labor as a commodity?

WAR POWERS AFTER A WAR

A bill placing a prohibition on the sale of alcoholic beverages, beginning June 30 next, and continuing until an indefinite date in the future, has passed Congress and with the President's signature will become a law.

Congress, of course, has no power under the Constitution to make such an enactment. If it had such power, a Federal amendment on the subject would not now be pending before the Legislatures of the country. The only shadow of legality attaching to the bill arises from far-fetched interpretations on the extent of the extra-constitutional war powers of Congress. But this bill did not gain the approval of Congress until the war from which a temporary extension of the congressional power is theoretically derived had already reached a de facto end. By its own terms the bill does not take effect until a date long after any probable time when the actual de jure end of that war will have been reached. Assumption of authority by Congress under the war power theory has gone on to an extent never dreamed of in former wars. But can it assume that war powers continue far beyond the end of a war as fixed by fact and by official determination? Is there no limit to war power in scope or in time?

This bill is to remain in effect until the troops are demobilized. How long is that? Some of them may never be demobilized. Congress has passed other bills that were only an encouragement to lawsuits. The force and body of this bill seem to be to encourage Federal litigious activity on perhaps the most widespread scale ever known.

The King of Bavaria departed so suddenly he had no time to leave his forwarding address.

WHAT ABOUT THIS FELLOW?

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspaper and periodicals on the questions of the day.

Presidential Dignity.

From the New York Times.

GR EAT as the occasion will be, it does not seem to us that the peace conference will call for the attendance of the President of the United States. He is expected to send delegates, not to go himself. However frequently it may be pointed out, here and abroad, that he is our Prime Minister, he is much more than that. In fact and in title he is the actual head of the state. There will be no member of that conference whom, in formal communications of amity and good will, he would address as "great and good friend." The people of the United States will not be able to dismiss from their minds the feeling that there would be something of unseemliness in his taking part in a council where questions will be argued, positions be attacked and defended, differences of view "thrashed out," as the saying goes. That is the function of delegates speaking as representatives of their Governments. We are accustomed to feel that when the President speaks, he speaks with authority. It is not quite the thing that he should engage in argument, much less in such controversies as will naturally arise in the discussion by the conference of the multitude of questions it must decide. If the President is not to take part in the deliberations, but is to attend as a distinguished visitor, the country would feel that it is not worth while. It is probable that the President will incline to that view.

German Socialist Leaders.

From the New York Evening Post.

LITTLE reason exists for the assumption that the Independent Socialists, who share with the Majority Socialists the new rule in Germany, are the "Bolshevik" of Germany. The Russian Bolsheviks antedate the war by more than 10 years. When the Russian Socialists in 1903 split into Bolsheviks, or Majority, and Mensheviks, or Minority, it was because Bolsheviks already stood for their present ideals—the imposition of a drastic social revolution by force. The origin of the German Independent Socialists shows no such issue upon Socialist doctrine or tactics. The German Socialist party entered the war united and remained formally united until 1916, when the Independents split off on the policy of supporting the war. As a matter of fact, until the end came, Hugo Haase, as parliamentary leader of the Socialists, continued to support policies imposed upon him by the majority against his personal convictions. Once the break came, it was natural that extremist tendencies should become accentuated among the Independents. But men like Ledebour and Haase have repudiated the Bolshevik philosophy and tactics. Thus even among the Independents a probable majority is anti-Bolshevik. Certainly, when we find among the Independents a man like Eduard Bernstein, famous as the leader of the Revisionists before the war, it is impossible to make Independent and Bolshevik synonymous.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH by Clark McAdams

MR. ANTWINE ON CHANGE.

IT is interesting to observe that those things in folk lore which serve the purposes of some particular class are always the last to give way. Mr. Antwine said:

"Thus, Germany no longer believes in the divine right of kings. The explosion of that notion has become pretty general all over Europe. It is incredible to a free people that anything should ever have believed in. We put it in the same category with fortune-telling, the superstition about walking under a ladder, and such odd fancies of our own folk lore as those pertaining to falling dishes and planting crops in the light of the moon. "However, we must recall that it has not been worth anyone's while to keep up the superstition with respect to a black cat crossing the road in front of us; whereas it has enormous profits a considerable class to keep alive the absurdity that kings rule by divine right. Rationalism encounters its greatest obstacles where the displacement of superstition would affect the fortunes of a great many people who are upheld by some such notion as that kings rule by divine right. Autocracy makes human society something like leaded glass, you can't throw a brick through it for the lead. "The people of Europe fall for that sort of thing easier than we do over here. All superstition dies slowly over there. It was good for us to get away from it all and come over here, where we could think. It keeps rainmakers and the like off the payroll. It is a fine thing to have made Europe safe for democracy, but how much finer a thing it will be if we can make it safe for horse sense!"

"That is what Europe needs—horse sense."

sense. The Mormon or somebody of that sort leads a few of us astray now and then; but on the whole it has been good for us to live in these wide, quiet places where we could think it over. We could not rid Europe of the bunk that was afoot in that part of the world, but we could flee from it and start over again. The result has been that after 300 years Europe has come to us. What a pity the world hasn't more wild places to which a few of us can retire now and then! We'll need them."

Sir: I've seen a number of explanations about what happened in the recent election, but none of them seems to hit the mark. Here's what happened: Everybody is pretty well pleased with what the President has done, and no one thought of getting anywhere but behind him. But when he made his appeal, the great American public somehow got the idea that it was being dictated to, and "right like it." Reminds me of a boss I used to have. When he was out, I would make prices on work. The customer would accept the price, and everything would be lovely—until the boss came in. I'd tell him about it, and he'd straightway ring up the customer and reduce the price. Then he'd hang up the receiver and look at me, as much as to say, "Now you know who's boss around here." Then, when the work was done, he'd cuss about the job not showing the profit it should and admit that my price was right. I hope we don't have to make any such admissions during the next year or so—but anyway we've shown who's boss.

A. N. PARKER.

It is unfortunate that Ireland has a quarrel with anybody. If it were not so we could turn all the arms and warships over to her and let her police the world. Ireland alone is human enough to do that without overdoing it, and we would be exactly as happy in the world as are the people in any community which has an Irish cop on the beat.

One of our readers thinks we are becoming so partisan that he cannot follow us any more, but if he will hold on a little longer he will find us on his side in something before very long. We try to be right, and the way the trail leads around through parties and one thing another simply beats hell.

THE WOLF AGAIN.

American Army Marching Toward the Rhine Along Historic Military Route

Movements of Occupational Forces Indicate That They Are to Proceed Through Luxembourg and Down Moselle Valley to Coblenz.

By FRANK H. SIMONDS.

Post-Dispatch's Military Critic, Author of "The Great War," Etc.

THE announcement that the Third American army, our Army of Occupation, has already begun its march to the Rhine, will naturally awaken much speculation as to what portion of the German territory marked for occupation in the armistice will receive our garrisons. As yet we have no official statement to guide us, but the first news of the progress of our troops seem to supply much light. We are informed that the First American army, having completed their first stage on the banks of the Moselle. This can only mean that we are taking the historic route that leads through Luxembourg and down the Moselle Valley to the Rhine at Coblenz, where the Moselle enters the larger stream and where Rhine tourists for half a century have been called upon to note the reluctance of the Moselle waters to mingle with those of the Rhine, as indicated by the resistance which the French waters retain their individual color.

Southward along the road we are now following in the opposite direction came the army of the German Crown Prince in the first days of the present war, borrowing the historic Gulf of Stenay, recently reconquered by the American troops, first to enter France. Montmedy, which we have occupied; Longwy, which we are to enter today, were fortresses blocking the road, and both of them were taken after very gallant resistance, that of Longwy memorable for all time, in the first weeks of August 1914.

Road Often Used by Armies. But back of the day of the Crown Prince other invading armies have borrowed the Moselle-Meuse road to invade France. By this route the Prussians came to Valmy in the first year of the War of the French Revolution and by the same road they retired after a defeat which marks the beginning of democracy in Continental Europe. By the same road came Blucher in 1814 in an invasion destined to succeed and to contribute to the expulsion of Napoleon from France and the capture of Paris by the invaders, although not until the Prussians had been many times defeated and once almost annihilated.

Then, 1814, before the war had been declared, the Germans crossed the frontiers of Luxembourg and occupied the little principality with its capital, which anciently was strongly fortified, and commanded the road to France by the Sauer river. Then, when the general advance began, the Crown Prince came south, took Longwy and Montmedy, crossed the Moselle, after desperate fighting between Stenay and Dun, where our troops have recently won a great battle, and then pressed southward between the Argonne and the forts of Verdun.

Our advance now, unless there be some complete change of route in the next few days, would seem to be destined to descend the Moselle, passing through Luxembourg and the northeastern corner of Alsace-Lorraine, through the German city of Treves and reaching the Rhine on a front between Coblenz and Bingen, which might fairly be expected to be the main posts of our occupation. In such a case we would almost inevitably occupy the great fort of Ehrenbreitstein, just opposite Coblenz, and constituting, with the forts of the left bank, one of the chief bulwarks of German defense.

If this be the plan, then it is probable that the British and Belgian forces will move eastward through King Albert's kingdom, taking up their positions on the left bank of the Rhine from Coblenz to the Dutch frontier, with Cologne as the chief city and fortress of their possession. They would follow the pathway of the armies of Kluck and Bulow, which came through Liege and Eastern Belgium to win the battles of Charleroi and Mons and thereafter to make their mad dash into France, which ended at the Marne.

Part to Be Held by French. Finally, the French on their part would hold the left bank of the Rhine from Bingen to Mayence conditioned on the extent of front held by us, right down to the Swiss frontier, with Mayence, Strasbourg and Neu Breischach as the main fortress to be occupied. But it is well to recognize the distinction that the armistice makes between Alsace-Lorraine and other German territory. The former is treated as in the same category as the districts of France and Belgium occupied until the present war.

Cologne for the British, Coblenz for the Americans, Mayence for the French; this would seem to be the present arrangement, which takes account of the front held by the respective armies when the armistice was signed and gives to each an easy and independent line of communication from its old front to the new. Our line will be the trunk railway coming south by the Valley of the Moselle and entering France at Longwy. The British will use the main Paris-Liege-Berlin railway for that portion of its course which lies between Maubeuge and Cologne. The French will use the Metz-Kaiserslautern-Mayence line and the various subsidiary railways between that route and the Rhine.

There is perhaps no older circumstance in history than that which will be supplied when Coblenz and Bingen have American Governors and American garrisons. (Copyright, 1918, by New York Tribune, Inc.)

Allies Must Establish Barrier at the Rhine, Mallette Says

By GEN. P. M. G. MALLETIERRE, Eminent French Military Critic. (Copyright, 1918.)

PARIS, Monday, Nov. 18.—The battle is terminated. Among the salutes rendered to the chiefs of the victorious allied soldiers, I wish to include my supreme homage to the last allied soldier who fell on liberated soil at the moment when firing ceased. His name, no doubt, will remain unknown, but the last victim of the greatest and most murderous war ever known will have the final joy of knowing that Germany, which loosened the war, was about to capitulate.

He will have died victor, while many others in the 52 months of the war died haunted by fear and despair, and depressed by their powerlessness to avert a threatened calamity. In these days of joy I think of my companions of August and September, 1914, who fell during our retreat, while we shuddered lest we be doomed to new defeat; and who fell at the Marne in the midst of battle, while we were securing the victory upon which the fate of France and the world depended.

Yet, on the march to the Rhine, now freely opened to the French and the allied soldiers, let us not forget the already distant days of 1914; let us remember the fundamental victory of the Marne.

Drama to End in Rhineland. We are going to occupy the Rhineland, that land which has been the great area of political strife between unified France and imperialistic Germany. The world's greatest drama will have its termination there. Let it be properly understood in America that the barrier of the Rhine must be established for the security of France and of the land on the west of the Atlantic against Germany. All our misfortunes, all the sorrow of this war came about because Prussia, as mistress of the German people, established itself on the left bank of the Rhine, and was able to concentrate a formidable army, created in a spirit of aggression and conquest, in the Rhine provinces and in Alsace-Lorraine. There must be no German soldiers on the left bank of the Rhine. That is how the armistice clause must be understood. "Evacuation of territory on the left bank of the Rhine, occupation of towns along the Rhine, with bridgeheads 30 kilometers deep on the right bank, to constitute a neutral zone; 10 kilometers wide, etc."—that is the fundamental "Artistic Temperament" Necessary "Stage Setting" for the Artist's "Soul"?

Every Great Musician Has Had Some Eccentricity Coupled With His Playing, Suggesting That Music With a Normal Background Lacks Full Inspiration—Heifetz's Weird Collection of Warlike Trophies, Absent From Which He Is an "Unkindly Fire," Recalls Whims of Other Well Known Artists.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

W HATS is a temperament? Nobody knows—save, perhaps, the perfect press agent. He is likely to find a temperament a cross between a gold mine and an earthquake. But this is a story of some of the things for which temperaments of the artistic variety are responsible.

The boy prodigy of the violin, Jascha Heifetz, went to New York the other day from his summer home. With him—despite the soaring rates of the merged express companies—came a small arsenal, including blunderbusses, Capt. Kidd cutlasses, a Chinese headman's sword, a German bayonet and other odd weapons, for which the ordinary, non-artistic, untemperamental individual would never dream there could be any use in the pacific pursuit of violin playing. Yet Heifetz's accompanist, Andre Benoit, gravely explained that unless young Heifetz is surrounded by these cherished possessions his artistic temperament does not respond to the call for his best work.

How does the temperament of an Ignace Paderewski manifest itself? In a rather more sensible fashion, it seems to me, although superficially his professional life seems an extraordinary one. His one secretary told me that the great pianist avoids the ordinary recreations of the physically fit man. He does not care to play golf, to row, to drive a motor car, to indulge in a friendly bout with the gloves. He takes his exercise through the gentle game of billiards, to which he is devoted and at which he excels. He also is an excellent bridge player.

Yet the explanation is simply that Paderewski conditions every act of his life by its possible effect on his fingers, which, it is said, are insured for $50,000. He dares do nothing to risk the effect of a bruise, a sprain or a scratch on his hands. He is fond of outdoor life in the country, and before he enjoyed his large country estate in Poland and his farm in Switzerland. He has been known to cut the grass on his lawn. He likes children and children's parties, and he has the splendid devotion to his war-torn country which any noble person minus all claims to temperament can understand.

Ethel Leginska, perhaps the greatest woman pianist, takes out her temperament in the sort of clothes she wears. She will not appear on the concert stage in the conventional evening dress of the woman artist. Those who have heard her play in Carnegie Hall remember the novelty of the dark-clad little figure, with short hair and without décolletage, which slipped across the stage and into her seat at the piano. She invariably appears in a short black skirt, a manish cut coat, black velvet and a simple blouse of white chiffon or georgette, over which she sometimes wears a white skirt like a man's. Her hair is uncommonly bobbed.

When I am at work," she explained to me, "I cannot be bothered with frilly things

THERE was never a time in the history of clothes when the importance of details was so apparent as now. This is because of the extreme simplicity of cut and line and trimming of frocks, which not only makes the fabric, its color, workmanship, etc., more noticeable, but also gives prominence to its accompanying accessories. They must be a part of the whole, either matching in color to achieve a harmonious ensemble or contrasting prettily to present an effect of sartorial completeness.

One night Billy Mouse took Miss Mousie down to the meadow to a little pond by his house. "I will take you sailing in my new bark boat," he told her.

Miss Mousie thought that after all she had better marry Billy Mouse, for as she sailed about by the light of the moon she thought it very nice.

But just as they landed a dreadful creature poked its head out of the water and tried to catch Miss Mousie, but Billy Mouse pulled her away, and across the field they ran. Miss Mousie nearly frightened out of her senses.

The next night Tim Mouse called on Miss Mousie, and under his arm he carried a big bunch of chestnuts, which made Miss Mousie smile very sweetly upon him.

"I don't see how anyone can live down in the field," said Tim, just as he did not know anything about Billy Mouse. "There are so many terrible animals about. Why, I have heard you are never safe even inside your own home, for there are creatures that can get in, no matter how far down in the ground you live. And sometimes Mr. Owl just waits until the field mice are gone and fat, and when the grain or corn is cut down he will carry off all the mice to his cave in the woods. A cat is nothing to be afraid of compared to Mr. Owl. If you will come into the pantry with me, Miss Mousie," said Tim, "I will show you where I have found a whole cheese and I intend to move it all to my home."

Miss Mousie followed Tim into the pantry, and while she was looking at the wonderful cheese and about to take a nibble, Tim gave a squeak and ran, and Miss Mousie saw Puss just in time to escape her sharp claws. But oh, how terrible it was the next night when Billy Mouse came to call on Miss Mousie, but he found tacked on the door a card, on which was written: "I married the farm, and such good things as are there you never could dream of."

The next night Tim Mouse went around to call on Miss Mousie, but he found tacked on the door a card, on which was written: "I married the farm, and such good things as are there you never could dream of."

slashed where it appears, while the waist is already opened so as to blouse a little each side of the plain front portion. This blouse is present all the way around over the belt, and is finished with a red and blue velvet trim. The skirt is cut down the high yoke both back and front.

If brown velour were chosen for this design, tan broadcloth would be smart for the waistcoat, with dark brown Hercules braid edging it.

My design today is an individual frock that exploits a long exaggerated waistcoat effect. The skirt is simple life. Before the war he had a home in a little Belgian village, to which he was devoted. He received guests in his apple orchard, and one of his favorite recreations was to go into the morning as early as 4 o'clock and go fishing with a rod and line before breakfast in the little stream which ran through the village. He often smoked a Dutch pipe. Withal, he had a wonderful collection of art objects, presented to him by admirers all over the world, and many wonderful violins.

His allegiance to Apollo, god of the lyre, did not keep Fritz Kreisler, Austrian violinist, from paying homage to Mars. Even before the war he had made no effort, like certain other musicians, to escape military service in his own country. On the contrary, he devoted considerable time to the study of the military art, and he was promoted to a captain before his honorable discharge. Since then he and his wife, a New York girl, have adopted many war orphans.

So much for temperamentalities—most of which, if you analyze them, are not, after all, such utterly mysterious vagaries!

There were luxuriant growths of delicately tinted flowers—or so they appeared—whose scent, one imagined, filled the motionless atmosphere. Tall, graceful forms, resembling willows, clustered along the banks of the stream, and in the distance, the gentlest of murmurs through their midst. The flinty ground was carpeted with a pale lanceolate-leaved herbage that might have been taken for grass were it not for the profusion of sparkling crystals with which it was sprinkled. These crystals glowed in varying and sometimes iridescent colors, showing a depth and solidity of substance decidedly out of keeping with a purely vegetable origin.

But this reminder of the presence of others in the cave besides her own party was more disturbing to Una than the physical obstacles and dangers immediately facing her. The cave could at least be met and overcome—but about an invisible multitude, their attitude toward them, their purpose in apparently following them, there was an indefiniteness that was altogether disheartening. As a matter of fact she had no doubt these hidden caverns were hostile; her previous experiences had filled her with a vague dread in that respect. This dread, also, was sharpened by the reflection that, in all probability, Raoul, among them, of his active enmity, linked in some mysterious manner with David's disappearance, she now felt certain.

Una tried to gain some light on the subject from Narva; but the latter either failed to hear the ominous sounds to which her attention was called, or she was too intent on her present mission to admit the consideration of other matters. This indifference, whether real or feigned, had a reassuring effect on Una. She perceived that if these invisible people, friendly or unfriendly, were connected with them, they would attract Narva's attention, while, if there was no connection—a conclusion suggested by the sibyl's unruffled bearing—there was nothing to fear from them.

Miss Mousie's Lovers.

PRETTY little Miss Mousie had two lovers—Tim Mouse, who lived in a hole in the wall of the pantry, and Billy Mouse, who lived down in the field.

Miss Mousie knew that Billy Mouse had a fine house where there was plenty of grain and corn.

How the Art of Happiness May Be Taught

By DOROTHY DIX

CAN the art of happiness be taught?

I know a woman who believes that it can and that it is just as much our duty to teach our children how to be happy as to teach them to read and write.

"Happiness," says this woman, "does not consist in some one big, overwhelming piece of good luck that comes to us. It consists in an infinite succession of little things in which we take pleasure."

Miss Mousie knew that Billy Mouse had a fine house where there was plenty of grain and corn.

BACHELOR GIRL REFLECTIONS

By Helen Rowland.

THE boy who was "just a nuisance round the house" before he went across will be the most precious and adored thing in it when he gets back.

When a man declares that he admires you for the beauties of your soul, or the charm of your mind, dearie, it is just his delicate little way of explaining that he's not thinking of marrying you.

To make a woman see through a joke you sometimes have to "put a hole in it," but in order to make Germany see through the Kaiser we had to put a hole in the German frontier, the German head, and the German ladder.

When a man flatters a woman it is exactly as though he had said, "Open your ears and shut your eyes and I'll tell you something to make a fool of you!"

It takes a lot of self-analysis for a girl to discover why she lets a man kiss her when she doesn't want him to—much.

Now that the worst is over, I suppose everybody will begin worrying about something. "She" will begin worrying about whether or not "He" will get home in time for Christmas. "He" will begin worrying about whether or not "She" and his job will be waiting for him; Mother will be worrying about how we can go on feeding Europe and her "boy" at the same time; the slacker will begin worrying about how he's going to get out of that little marriage without paying alimony, and all the pessimists who have been worrying about the war will begin worrying about the shocking length of the women's new skirts.

It's a long reign that has no turning nowadays.

caught by Puss."

Tim Mouse crept back home very sorrowfully. He did not call on Billy Mouse and he never married. He grew to be a cross old fellow, and everyone called him Old Bachelor Mouse.

THE GILDED MAN

A Romance of the Andes

By CLIFFORD SMYTH

Una would have felt a stronger confidence in their mission, a keener enthusiasm, had Narva been more definite as to the identity of the man to whose rescue she believed they were hastening, or had she given some hint of the kind of danger which he was actually exposed. But was all so vague, she feared that some mistake had been made, a mistake easily growing out of the fervid imagination that, any one could see, quite controlled Narva's mind. While there was no shaking the old sibyl's attestation, however, the calm determination with which she set about her task proved, in a measure, inspiring. Una might feel an occasional doubt as to the outcome of their venture, but this doubt finally disappeared altogether before the faith, growing stronger with the changing aspect of the scene through which they were passing, that in some unlooked-for way she was about to attain the main object that had brought them into this ancient home of a vanished race.

They had now

WASHINGTON ASKS THREE TEAMS FOR DECEMBER GAMES

Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas Aggies Wanted for Post Season Contests.

Local Universities to Complete Plans Today for Thanksgiving Tilt

FINAL details of the annual football game between Washington and St. Louis University on Thanksgiving day, will be worked out today at a meeting of officials of the two institutions. The Billikens will be represented by Father H. A. Hermanns, Athletic Director, and Coach Ernest C. Quigley, while Coach Dick Rutherford will be official spokesman for the Pikers.

The ticket sale is the chief problem to be cared for. The past seasons have not yet been offered for sale, because of the uncertainty prevailing concerning the recent quarantine. Admission prices will be determined while the coaches will select the officials. The game this year will be played at Francis Field.

Coach R. B. Rutherford of Washington University is laying plans for the first December football campaign in the history of Washington or any other valley conference university. Thanks to war and to influenza, the original schedule of the Pikers was knocked out. The big game of the season, that with Missouri, was abandoned and only one conference contest has thus far been played.

To offset this, the season will be extended into December, with a possibility that three important contests, all with valley conference teams, will be played.

Rutherford yesterday announced that he had written Missouri and Nebraska Universities for games on Dec. 7 and Dec. 14, and had also written the Kansas Aggies of Manhattan, Kan., for a third engagement.

May Play All Games Here.

"From what I have observed of the St. Louis climate since my stay here," Rutherford commented yesterday, "December is not so severe a month as November. There are no insurmountable difficulties in the way, and I hope for favorable answers to my request for games. I am willing to play these anywhere, but, of course, would like to have them held in this city."

Owing to late school hours yesterday, the squad did not start practice until 4:30 p. m. The practice ground used in not Francis Field, but is at some distance from the university, so that time is lost in going to and from the workout.

Practice on the "Q. T."

The change of location was due partly to the fact that drilling squads have been invading Francis Field, and partly to the coach's belief that his plays and signals were last year made known in advance to St. Louis University. Rutherford's practice is held in secret, and will be for the remainder of the season, until after the St. Louis U. game.

DEMPEY KNOCKS OUT 'PORKY' LYNN IN TWO MINUTES AND 16 SECONDS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight boxer, knocked out Porky Flynn of Boston in the first round of a scheduled six-round bout here last night. Dempsey was master of the situation from the beginning and with a series of right and left jabs to the body and head put his opponent through the ropes. A moment later he sent him down for the count with a left hook to the jaw. The round lasted two minutes and sixteen seconds.

PIKERS' ELEVEN ONE OF FOUR AFTER DECEMBER GAME WITH NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 18.—The athletic management of the University of Nebraska, today, decided to extend the present football season into December for at least two games. Negotiations are now being made, it was announced, for games during December with the teams of Illinois, Michigan and Oklahoma universities and Washington University of St. Louis.

IT'S a long, long way to the U. S. A. For the boys across the foam: And don't forget they are out there yet.

Three thousand miles from home. And their hearts turn back to the dear old shack. With the yule log burning free; So, we'll send a box for the Christmas sox.

Of the boys across the sea.

It's a grand old crowd and we're very proud

Of the way our boys behaved; When our gallant crew went across we knew That democracy was saved.

Oh, the boys made good when in Balleau wood They pierced the German line; So to fill their sox we will send a box For the sake of auld lang syne.

We must raise the funds to provide our lads

With the good old Christmas cheer; They are over there, where the skies are fair. But their hearts are over here. We said, "Well done!" when they licked the Hun. And made the Kaiser flee; So we'll all come through with a buck or two

For the boys across the sea.

They trained their guns on the Kaiser's Huns

And gave them shell for shell; Their aim was true and the boys came through.

Though many a hero fell; When the news was flashed that the Huns were smashed.

With joy we were almost stunned; So we'll gladly shell our coin to

The United War Work Fund.

Too Bad.

We gather from the reports of the riots in various cities in Germany that the war broke up in a row.

The Fatal 10.

Ex-Kaiser Bill has taken the name of Count Hohenzollern. We knew he had taken the "count" all right but didn't know he expected to use it for a title.

It is rumored that Kaiser Bill is going to try to pull a comeback. No chance, Bill; they won't stand for has-beens in the League of Nations.

We have no objections to the Germans being fed but they will have to stand at the end of the bread line and wait their turn. Hunan beings first.

Jack Smith, the Card's fleet center fielder, dropped in for a few moments yesterday. Looks like first division.

The war having been brought to a successful conclusion, the six-day bicycle race will be started in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 1. War is hell but peace is better.

Greetings!

See where Admirals Sims and Wemyss exchanged greetings. We also understand Haig and Haig passed the time of day.

CROSBY SEES GLOOMY FUTURE FOR MCKINLEY

Coach of 1917 Champs Says Race This Year Is Between Soldan, Central.

Notwithstanding McKinley's showing of last season when they won the interscholastic football title after preseason "dope" had indicated little to hope for Coach Clifford Crosby to McKinley High School believes the fight for honors this season will be between Central and Soldan. Coach Crosby flatly asserted yesterday that if his eleven repeats its performance of last year he will be the most surprised person in high school circles.

"My eleven this year," said Crosby,

"is very, very green. I have two boys, Capt. Bill Pries at left end, and Spuehler at right half, who are hold-overs from last season. The remainder of the eleven have had no experience whatever in high school football circles.

"Nor is that all. The entire team will not average above 146 pounds. Central scales an average of 151, while Soldan does 153. That Soldan line, weighing 170, is an average of 19 pounds per man heavier than McKinley. Our backfield averages 142, which is the only reason I have for hoping to make the race close, as it is 3 pounds heavier than Soldan's and about the same weight as Central.

"We shall, of course, try for all we are worth. I thought previous to the race last season that I had an eleven which might as well have been counted out of the race. The boys came through, however, and won the championship. They may do the same this year.

"Central has, from what I saw last Saturday, a very fast and smooth working team. They must be given credit for they got by that heavy Soldan line and won. I shall be able to tell more about my team after we play Soldan next Saturday."

UNITED WAR WORK FUND

RECEIVES $830 OUT OF

BENEFIT SOCCER GAME

President Winton Barker of the St. Louis Soccer League yesterday turned over a check for $830 to Herbert Gardner, advertising manager of the United War Work Campaign, as the professional league's bit to the fund. This money was derived from the benefit game between the local All-Stars and Great Lakes teams played at Cardinal Field Sunday.

Figures announced by Phil Riley, treasurer of the St. Louis League show that 2193 adults and 63 children paid admissions, which made the receipts $1112.25. The expense connected with the game amounted to $282.25, which left $830. Of the expenditures $523.55 was the expense of the visiting aggregation.

WEEGHMAN TO RETIRE FROM CUBS' PRESIDENCY

IN FAVOR OF MITCHELL

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Fred Mitchell, manager of the Chicago club of the National League, will be elected president of the club to succeed Charles Weeghman, it was authoritatively announced today. The change will be made within two weeks.

Weeghman's business interests have prevented him handling his baseball affairs with the full attention they demanded. He will, however, retain his financial interest in the club.

Weeghman was one of the backers of the Federal League and he became president of the Chicago Nationals when the club was absorbed by himself and the associates.

Mitchell came to the club two years ago from Boston where he was scout, coach and utility man to George Stallings, manager of the Boston Nationals.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Gates Will Open Next Year.

ALREADY Organized Baseball has lifted up its erstwhile downcast head, and is taking a look around with something like hope. It is evident that when the major league meetings are held next December, the optimists will be strongly in the majority over the pessimists, as to opening the gates next spring of summer.

The only argument against the resumption of baseball is on the ground that players of major league quality will not be available in sufficient numbers. However, this is only conjecture as not even Washington is able, at this time, to shed any light on the subject of preferential demobilization.

It is a known fact that not more than half of the 450 major league players under reserve two years ago are now in the service.

It takes only 250 players to make 16 teams of 15 players each—which was more than some world's championship winners of other days have carried.

The National League Election.

JOHN B. HEYDLER, a quiet, cautious, painstaking, hard-working man, is acting president of the National League. He has officiated in this capacity on several occasions previously. He filled the gap during President Tom Lynch into the mysteries of the N. L. presidency; he knows all the intricacies of the National League's government-by-directors fallacy. If anybody knows a way to defeat the ancient Grandma System, he knows it.

Despite Heydler's experience and qualifications to fill the office of president, when the annual election takes place next December, Heydler may possibly not be nominated. It ought to be offered him unanimously, but instead, it may be given to some outsider who has limited experience and no greater ability than Heydler.

They are mentioning Branch Rickey—who will be in France for an indefinite period; Brown of Louisville, Foster of New York and others. Foster is a capable man, but he has a position now—why put him into a new one, when a man is at hand ready-made for the better? Heydler has done the work of president for several years; why not give him a chance to reap some of the salary rewards?

BILLIKENS CANCEL GAME WITH KENTUCKY U.; MAY PLAY ROSE POLY HERE

Father H. A. Hermanns, athletic director at St. Louis University, last night notified the University of Kentucky that the Billikens would not go to Lexington for the scheduled game there next Saturday. Father Hermanns said he had received no answer from Kentucky since returning the contracts sent by them to the Billikens.

Therefore, he considered the game had been abandoned by Kentucky, and rather than be left without a contest for Saturday, he has made tentative arrangements to play Rose Poly here. If Rose Poly cannot accept the date, there is a chance it will be given to Little Rock College, which already has requested a contest.

WHITEHEAD BEATS DEEN IN WAR WORK CONTEST

Oscar Whitehead defeated Harry Deen, 957 to 954, at Bobby Byrne's alley in the best match rolled last night for the benefit of the United War Work campaign. The winner had a high game of 223 while the losers best was 223. Otto Stein defeated Jerry Anneling, 924 to 858, in the match at Peterson's.

CAMP INSTRUCTORS TO REMAIN AS AMATEURS

National A. A. U. Decided This at Its Annual Meeting in Philadelphia Yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—That amateur athletes who have been acting as paid instructors in the different army camps will not lose their amateur standings was the most interesting announcement from officials of the National A. A. U. at the closing day of the annual meeting yesterday. The constitution was amended to this effect.

New officers elected for the coming year were Samuel J. Dallas of the Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, president; J. F. Conway of Boston, J. T. Taylor of Pittsburgh, Robert Weaver of Los Angeles and Latrobe Cogswell of Baltimore, vice presidents, while Frederick W. Rubien was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The next annual meeting was awarded to Boston.

The union rejected one record, that of Duke P. Kahanamoku, Honolulu, who claimed a mark of 1 minute, 4-5 seconds in the 110 yards open title salt water straight away event. It was said the start was irregular.

The union also rejected an amendment proposed by the Pacific Association that foreign athletes shall not be eligible to compete in championships.

Two thousand dollars will be given for athletic equipment in army camps in Porto Rico, and $3000 will be distributed for camp athletic equipment in this country during the demobilization period.

Here's a Nightmare.

EVERY time a baseball man thinks about the Boston situation he weeps. The horror of waste confronts him every time he looks at those two vast baseball fields seating an aggregate of over 70,000 persons. Two big investments—one is said to total $800,000—have been made where one would have sufficed.

If you want to know what's the matter with baseball, the answer is to be found in conditions like the Boston situation—overcapitalization.

When baseball, some years hence, settles down to one park for two clubs, it may be able to get away with the frenzied finance that for some years has had its owners on the verge of the madhouse.

Johnson Led A. L. Pitchers Last Season, Official Averages Show

WALTER JOHNSON, star of the Nationals, was the leader among the American League pitchers last season, official averages released today show. Johnson in 325 innings allowed only 46 earned runs, an average of 1.28 per nine-round game. Urban Shocker, who joined the navy topped him, but twirled only 81 innings. Urban Shocker and Allan Roth, oron of the Browns ranked fourth and sixth, respectively. Scott Perry, who hurled 332 innings, was the iron man. He was seventh in efficiency. The figures:

PENNY ANTE—One of Those "Innocent" Guys.—By Jean Knott

An Excellent Example.

A VENERABLE citizen of the Straddle Ridge neighborhood entered a luncheon in Polkville, Ark., dragging after him a gander-necked, lop-eared youth.

"What kind o' pie have ye got yere?" he asked of the brisk waitress.

"Peach, apple, mince, raisin, punker, apricot, mince, raisin and cokenut-custard!" she answered with considerable rapidity.

"Pur!—which?" returned the old fellow.

The young lady repeated the list with still greater speed.

"Please say that over agin," he requested the ancient man.

"Say, lookee here!" demanded the waitress. "Can't you understand anything?"

"Oh, yes'm; I understand, all right!" He turned to the lop-eared youth.

"There, now, Emmett!" he triumphantly said. "You see, it's jest as I told you; a person kin talk as fast as he pleases without stut-terin', if he'll only take keer!"

Judge.

A Sudden Suspicion.

"FRED, do you remember where your wife was in 1914?" asked the bride of a few moments.

"Why, no, dear, I don't remember exactly," replied the young husband.

"Why do you ask?"

"Why, I was reading today in the paper that it said that in 1914 one person in every 800 in the United States was in prison."—Roller Monthly.

A Reminder.

"MRS. FLATBUSH: 'Why don't you wash that ink stain off your finger?'"

Mr. Flatbush: Oh, that's to remind me of something.

"To remind you of what?"

"Not to use that fountain pen again."—Yonkers Statesman.

PERFECT FITTING MUNSING WEAR UNION SUITS

MUNSINGWEAR workmanship and materials insure unusual durability and wearability. Constant stretching and stooping does not affect the elasticity of the fabric.

Stretch—and Munsingwear allows you all the room you need without binding or chafing. Each trip to the laundry improves its appearance and texture. There's a right size for you.

The satisfaction lasts.
